Interesting Talk On The Recent Overturn In Spain Before Rotarians

Prof. H. H. Powers Speaks From First Hand Knowledge Of Problems Of New Republic

Vice-president Walter McCammon presided at the regular meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Monday at the Woodland Golf Club. Edwin O. Childs introduced the speaker, Prof. H. H. Powers, formerly of Cornell but who came to Newton thirty years ago and is now the head of the University of Puerto Rico. Professor Powers was in Spain during the recent overturn there and gave a very interesting talk on that subject.

He told of arriving in Madrid in 1923 at the time of the revolution then and of the lack of excitement shown by the public. The people felt that the government of those years was of little consequence and took little interest in the setting up of the dictatorship. That dictatorship lasted until recently. He contrasted the dictatorship in Spain with that of Mussolini stating that the latter was a movement of the people while the former came about through the efforts of a small group of officers. Though it was comparatively short-lived it was admirable in many ways.

On the 14th of April, 1931, he was in Spain again when the news broke that a republic had been declared. There was marked contrast with the previous revolt. Much excitement in favor of the new order was shown and what opposition there was remained under cover. The question is whether or not the new form of government will be successful. The outlook is more optimistic than at first. There was much in its favor in that it started peacefully. The national election resulted in a decidedly conservative choice as the liberals won decisively while the radicals lost heavily. In fact the head of the successful party said that he was sorry to win by such a margin as he did not feel the party was ready for the task. One doubt Prof. Powers expressed was the fear that the new head, a man of ability and principle yet not a man of great force, would be elbowed out by the radicals.

One of the great problems faced by the new order is that of unification. Although Spain is almost surrounded by the sea it is divided by mountain chains. Until 1479 it was a number of little kingdoms which were brought together by King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella. Prof. Powers sketched the history of Spain through the intervening years, the revolt of the Moors and the infamous Inquisition. The greatest power in the world when Mexico and Peru were under its dominion Spain faced the inevitable result of its religious weaknesses and gave Spain a character like none other. The new republic has this as an inheritance. When the new republic came into being it was expected that the church would look askance and great amazement was expressed when the church at once announced that it would do everything to make the republic a success. Things were running smoothly until that announcement which caused the Republicans to feel that the church desired a place in the new regime. The church, however, claimed the right to defend its rights in the political field. From 1475 until recently Spain had been under the other system and another great problem, the relation of church to state, must be considered.

Turning to the possibility of a federal form of government Prof. Powers explained how it was not feasible. First the states would have to create themselves. Castile is the Prussia of Spain and would practically control such a form of government. While Spain has an almost insane confidence in our form of government it must be remembered that the United States were individual states first, with an almost equal power.

There has never yet been a successful republic among Latin peoples although that does not mean it is impossible. The local character of governmental problems differs through their training, conditions and historic background. There is hope that Spain will emerge from its sad historic past and misdirected energies for it has possibilities of a great future.

An invitation from Bill Halliday for the club to have an outing at Brewster some week-end in September was accepted and referred to the directors. Orville Clapper, chairman of a special committee formed a year ago for the purpose, announced that the last Rotary sign had been erected on main artery leading into the city. The committee consisted also of Frank Clark, Wilbur Thompson, and George Young.

To Hold Clinic For Infantile Paralysis

Health Department Seeks Donations Of Blood For Serum

On Monday morning, September 4, at the Newton hospital between 9 and 12 a clinic will be held to collect blood for the production of serum to combat infantile paralysis. Invitations have been sent to 65 residents of Newton by the Newton Board of Health who have had infantile paralysis within the past 15 years. The clinic will be held under the direction of the State Department of Public Health and the blood donated will be used in serum to treat cases in the Connecticut Valley and other sections where the disease is prevalent. The amount of blood to be taken from each person will not be sufficient to cause inconvenience.

Newton has been comparatively free from infantile paralysis this year. The number of cases reported show that there were fewer cases in this city during July and August than during the same months in 1929 and 1930.

REAL ESTATE LISTING DISCUSSED

An object-lesson in the proper listing of houses for sale was furnished by a skit entitled, "Well-listed is Half Sold" at the regular weekly noon-day luncheon of the Newton Board of the Boston Real Estate Exchange at the Vernon Court Hotel.

James W. Gibson of Commonwealth avenue and Thomas V. Cleveland from the office of R. M. Patterson of Newton Corner, entertained the large number of brokers present with a carefully prepared dialogue representing a conversation between a property-owner and a wide-awake realtor.

The point was developed that, in order to sell residential property on the present market, owners should list their properties at prices which will compare favorably with the cost of new houses built at present reduced prices.

Owners should make due allowance for the age of property and changes in styles. The fact that styles and age influence residential values just the same as with automobiles or women's clothing, was forcibly illustrated during the discussion.

It was agreed by everybody present that, in order to sell the older houses on this market, owners must be willing to accept lower prices to attract desirable buyers. Where owners are either unwilling or unable to take the necessary loss in order to effect a sale at the present time, it was recommended that such owners offer their houses for rent for a year or two until the prospect of returning prosperity makes it possible to obtain higher prices.

In order to correct the damage which often results from unsound, premature, and snap appraisals, several speakers advocated the creation of a joint board of appraisal, to act under the auspices of the local real estate board, with a view to providing both owners and brokers with sound, carefully-considered, prices at which properties can be sold.

CRASHES INTO UNLIGHTED AUTO

Wednesday afternoon about 4 an automobile driven by Mrs. Vera Robinson of Lake road, Wellesley had one of its tires go flat on Beacon street, Waban near Beethoven avenue. The woman parked the car where the trouble occurred and left it, intending to return later. At 11 o'clock Wednesday night the car was still parked at that location and its lamps were not lighted. Nelson Manning, Jr., 17, of 41 Berwick road, Newton Highlands came along in a car and crashed into the car which had been parked by Mrs. Robinson. His face was severely cut and he was taken to the Newton Hospital by a passing autoist.

Recent Weddings

McGILL—FREDERICK

Birch Lodge, the summer home of Walter F. Frederick, clerk of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was the scene of an attractive wedding Saturday afternoon when his daughter, Virginia Louise, and Frederick T. McGill, Jr., of Newton, Mass., were married.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Adelbert V. Hudson, pastor of the First Parish Church, Dorchester, Mass. The double ring ceremony was used. The house was tastefully decorated with yellow and lavender gladioli, Japanese lilies and festoons of laurel.

Their only attendant was little Virginia Frederick, a niece of the bride, who held the bridal bouquet during the ceremony. The members of the immediate families were grouped about the alcove where the ceremony was performed.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. McGill of Fisher avenue, Newton Highlands. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1925 and received his Master of Arts degree in 1928. He is now a professor of English at Dana College, Newark, N. J.

BIGELOW—SWETT

Miss Mabel Eager Swett, daughter of Mrs. Vernon B. Swett of 3 Magnolia avenue, Newton, and the late Vernon B. Swett, was married to Victor Stoddard Bigelow, son of Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow of Andover, Mass., and the late Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, D. D., on Wednesday evening, September second, at the Second Church, West Newton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ray A. Eusden, pastor of the Elliot Church of Newton.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and veil of Brussels lace. She carried a shower bouquet of the lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Swett, as maid of honor, wore a gown of angel blue satin and carried a bouquet of roses and larkspur.

The groom was attended by Mr. Robert P. Anderson of Noank, Conn., as the best man. The ushers were D. Hardwick Bigelow of Newtonville, Donald J. Moore of Wellesley Hills, Albert Ball of Middletown, New York, W. Holbrook Lowe of Winchester, Hayward S. Houghton of Boston and Knowlton D. Stone of Andover.

A small reception for relatives and intimate friends was held at the Brae Burn Country Club. On their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow will reside in Quincy.

YOUNG—PILLMAN

The marriage of Harold F. Young of 139 Rowe street, Auburndale, and Miss Ruth Pillman of 61 Prescott street, Newtonville, was revealed this week when the bride tendered her resignation as secretary of the Newton health department.

Mrs. Young returned from her vacation this morning and resumed her duties. She will retain her position until a successor is appointed. Her resignation will be received by Dr. Francis George Curtis, chairman of the Board of Health, when he returns from his vacation.

The couple were married in Bourne on Wednesday, August 26, at the parsonage of the Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George H. Stanley. A shower in honor of the bride was tendered by her friends at Parkwood Beach.

Mr. Young is the proprietor of a bathhouse at Norumbega Park. He is a member of the Board of Registrars of Voters and is executive secretary of the Mayor's unemployment relief committee. Merchants Approve Parking Request

Plan Business Booster Week Sept. 14th to 19th

The Newton Business Associates, composed of Newton merchants around Newton Corner, held a special meeting on Monday evening at the Hunnewell Club on the matter of parking and traffic conditions in that section of the city. The executive committee of the organization some days previously had held a meeting at which the recent report of the traffic expert appointed by Mayor Weeks was thoroughly discussed. It was agreed that the important need at Newton Corner at present was additional parking facilities and it was agreed to ask the city to put into effect part of the proposed plan with slight changes.

This plan included the taking of all the land and buildings between Bacon and Pearl streets with an additional taking of a portion of the land upon which the old opera house now stands. The Newton Business Associates executive committee asked the approval of the organization in requesting the city "to take all land and buildings between Bacon and Pearl streets, Newton, as shown on the proposed plan. Do nothing about widening Pearl street on the north side (the opera house location). Take the store now occupied by barber shop, corner of Pearl and Centre streets, and widen Pearl street on the south side. The estimated cost of this would be $56,000 plus additional expense for taking this store. It is felt that these additional parking facilities will relieve traffic considerably and that until such time as changes are needed, present traffic routing be left unchanged. We feel that with this part of the plan started, later other improvements can be taken up as needed."

Before voting upon the question some discussion was held. Albert T. Stuart stated that the widening of the southerly side of Pearl street was worthy of consideration but was of the opinion that it would be necessary to go into the store next to the barber shop mentioned in order to take enough land to properly widen this corner. He also suggested that the Associates incorporate in their request the advisability of widening Bacon street from the rear of the Paramount Theatre to Pearl street and the southerly side of Pearl street between Bacon and Peabody streets in the event the parking space is provided by the city. This amendment being approved the question was put to a vote. With about thirty of the leading merchants of the Newton Corner section attending the response to President Larry Frederick's question of approval was unanimously in favor.

The question of a Business Booster Week in Newton Corner was brought up, discussed at length and voted upon favorably. The week of September 14th to 19th will accordingly be known as Business Booster Week at Newton Corner. During the week all the merchants will decorate their windows and run special sales of merchandise. Posters will be displayed in the store windows. On two evenings during the week the American Legion Band will give band concerts and music for block dancing. Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 16th and 17th are the tentative dates announced and if any change is necessary it will be announced shortly.

As a climax to the Field Day conducted at the Newton Centre playground on July 31st and August 1st, Newton Post No. 48 American Legion Band held a Whist Party at the State Armory, West Newton, on the evening of August 26th, 1931.

Following the completion of the party the prizes for the Field Day activities consisting of a ton of coal, a radio and a trip to Detroit were awarded to the fortunate ones.

Mr. L. E. Ober, 40 Woodbine terrace, Auburndale, Mass., was the recipient of the coal. Mr. Frank P. Good, 40 Highland avenue, Newtonville, will be able to listen to a great many of the programs coming over the air with his new radio. Mr. F. H. Franklin, residing at 83 Richardson street, Newton, Mass., is considering himself very fortunate in receiving the necessary funds to take a trip to Detroit.

By APPEALS PROPOSED AT BOYLSTON STREET

To care for cross traffic at two heavily travelled intersections on Boylston street, which is the proposed route of the new Boston and Worcester automobile artery through this city, it is planned to carry the highway on an overpass over Chestnut street at Newton Upper Falls and on an overpass where Centre street meets Winchester street at Newton Highlands. The overpass at Chestnut street will serve a second important purpose by reducing the steep grade at this location. A new bridge to conform with the width of the highway will be erected over the Charles River at Boylston street between Newton Upper Falls and Wellesley.

NEWTON CENTRE HOUSE BURNED

Box 71 was sounded at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for a fire which damaged the upper part of the house at 16 Garland road, Newton Centre, occupied by Jeremiah Sullivan. The blaze started on a stairway on the second floor and spread to the attic. The damage is estimated at about $800.

Camp Frank A. Day Closes Its Sixteenth Successful Season

Season Of Activities Brought To A Close With Announcement Of Awards

The last week at Camp Frank A. Day has been one of varied activities, bringing to a close the 16th season of camping. During the year a lively interest in the development of boy life has been shown and with an efficient staff of counsellors and instructors, the Camp has progressed and taken its place among the better camps in the country.

The athletic program played an important part in the Camp life as it has in the past, although in a different way. More time was given to instruction so that the boys might have a better understanding of the various games.

It was particularly interesting to note that in baseball many campers knew little about the finer points of the game. In the major and minor leagues the games were hard fought and showed remarkable spirit on the part of the boys. The Senior Camp was divided into five leagues, each team playing the others in one game of the following sports: baseball, basketball, volleyball, swimming, track meets, and canoe regattas.

The Nature Program has taken long strides toward an improved Camp Program. Mr. Morton H. Wiggin, a teacher at the Newton High School, was the head of that department and he carried on an intensive program in the study of flowers, birds, trees, and insect life. Mr. Wiggin was particularly adapted to this work and 70 per cent of the boys in Camp came under his tutelage in Nature Study. Dana Elliott of Newtonville avenue was regarded as the best all-around nature boy and was given the Camp Frank A. Day Charm in recognition of his efforts and his study.

A new department—Woodcraft—was started this year. Mr. George Conaty, head of the Sloyd Department in the Walpole High School, was in charge. The work, which included relief base carving, minor wood working, and the building of different projects around Camp by the boys, afforded a great deal of instruction in the use and handling of tools.

The tennis courts were busy all summer and Robert Johnson of Lawrence Academy gave instruction to all boys who desired it. The Senior Tennis Cup was won by Myron Crowe and the Junior Cup by Loring Nye.

The Division of the Camp has been completed and the Juniors at the present time are settled in a heavily wooded grove with an outlook from the rear of the tents into a deep ravine and dense forest, while from the front of the tents one looks out across the lake to the mountains in the distance. Boys from ten to thirteen years of age have this site for their own and the Senior boys are practically a quarter of a mile away from them.

On Tuesday, August 25th, the positions of Director, Head Counsellors, Officers of the Day and Junior Officer of the Day were taken in charge by Campers, and these boys carried out their work very efficiently. The following were elected: Winslow Collier, Director; Alan Smith, Head Counsellor of the Junior Camp; Joseph Kirby, Head Counsellor of the Senior Camp; Joseph Golden, Officer of the Day; and Robert Stevens, Junior Officer of the Day.

At the closing banquet, awards were made for the season, and the following were honored: Richard Clapp, Jr., received the Senior Camp Cup and the Senior Athletic Cup; Loring Nye, the Junior Camp Cup; Alan Smith, the Junior Athletic Cup; Myron Crowe, the Senior Tennis Cup; and Thomas McCutcheon, the Junior Tennis Cup. Medals for the runner up in tennis were made to Norman McCutcheon in the Senior Camp and Loring Nye in the Junior Camp.

The following were on the swimming team in the Senior league and received Camp Frank A. Day charm medals: Warren Cushman, Melvin Lane, Stuart Lowell, John Hibbard, Peter Bogert, James Piper, John Edwards, Richard Warren, and Walter Kipper.

The champion Baseball team was the Athletics. The champion Basketball team was the Giants, composed of the following: George Graham, Myron Crowe, Robert Andrews, Gilbert Wallace, Allan MacQuarrie, William Fish, Robert Snow, Malcolm Hersome, Sherwin Kibbe, John Carshia, Frank Watrous, Lawrence Hutchins and Fred Kyle.

The regattas were won by the Athletics and the swimming meet was won by individual members of the four league teams. The coaches were Mr. Lane and Mr. Conaty.

In the Junior League, the winners were the Cardinals, who were composed of the following: Alan Smith, Captain, Edward Perkins, Parker Teulon, Robert Curran, Robert Asbury, Richard Fairfield, Merlin Bullock, Henry Shaw, Jack Perry, George Graham, Murdock Bowman, and David Ashton. In baseball the champions were the Pirates, coached by Mr. Schoal and Mr. Champion.

On the last Sunday evening at camp the Candle Light Service was held in the Outdoor Chapel, and it was a very impressive sight to see the boys with lighted candles, lighted from the main group of candles, going through the woods and to their tents without any other light. During the year, services in the outdoor chapel were held each Sunday and the visiting speakers were Mr. Charles D. Kepner, Chairman of the Camp Committee, and Mr. Martin Campbell, Adviser of the Hi-Y Clubs.

The Dads' Club members spent a week at camp and reported a wonderful time with their boys. Mr. Carl C. Muller, Newton Centre, is President of the Club. Mr. Richard C. Clapp, Secretary, and Dr. Robert R. Rich, Treasurer.

In summing up the season at Camp Day, there were one hundred and eighty-one different boys from Newton and vicinity, and thirty-one on the staff including twenty-one college men, three college graduates, a graduate physician, an osteopath, three directors, and several high school and preparatory school boys.

MORE RESTRAINED DOGS BITING

A complaint was made to the Newton police on Tuesday by Thomas Brown of 82 Freeman street, Auburndale, that he had been bitten by a dog owned by Stanley Otowchits of 96 Freeman street. The dog was ordered restrained and Dr. Boutelle was notified to examine the animal.

On Tuesday night the police notified William Sands of 22 King street, Auburndale to restrain his dog. A neighbor had complained that the animal had been bothering him.

According to a complaint made to the Newton police last Sunday, a dog owned by James Walsh of 35 Crosby road, Newton Centre, attacked Mrs. Catherine Moran of 9 Strathmore road, Brookline, and her son, Paul, while they were walking on College road, Chestnut Hill. The dog was walking with its owner when it attacked the woman and boy. Dr. Boutelle was notified to examine the dog.

NEWTON SPORTS

NONANTUM TOPS "Y" IN 18-INNING GAME

The Nonantum A. A. won the right to meet Silver Lake A. C. in the play-off series for the championship of the Newton twilight league by taking two of the three game preliminary series with the Newton Y. M. C. A. last week. The final struggle took place last Saturday afternoon at Victory field where the two outfits battled eighteen innings in the longest game of baseball ever recorded in the city before Nonantum put across the needed run to win, 3 to 2. Nonantum has previously won the first game and Friday night the Y evened the count in a hectic game of three innings which ended in confusion and was protested by the losers.

The score of Friday night's game was 7 to 3 in favor of the "Y" when the game broke up in the first of the fourth. Nonantum protested on the grounds that the game was started late and the "Y" charged that Nonantum had stalled in an effort to have the game called on account of darkness. No decision was reached by the judges prior to the game Saturday afternoon and as the Nonantum team clinched the series the outcome did not matter.

Saturday many fans witnessed the four hour battle which was packed full of thrills. Bob Dalton, former Newton high twirler, was on the mound for Nonantum and George Hokanson for the "Y." Both went the full distance with Dalton having a slight edge. The "Y" scored in the first inning to take the lead on singles by Cannon, Larry Shaw and Gallagher. In the seventh Nonantum put over its first tally on Morris' double, a balk and a wild throw to first by Hokanson. In the last of the ninth Nonantum tied it up. Morris led off with a single, took third on Burke's hit and scored while Gray was throwing out Lombardi at first.

From then on the battle was replete with tense situations. First one team and then the other would get a man on base only to have the threatened run prevented by a sparkling play. Wonderful throws, or stops, strikeouts or running catches of hard hit flies were inserted at just the proper moment. Lane of Nonantum and Moran of the Y, both centerfielders gave a great exhibition of ground covering. With the sixteenth inning completed Allan Shaw, Y catcher, had to leave the game exhausted, two other Y players had to leave for other engagements and the Y team became handicapped. During the last two innings but eight men played as Manager Fitzgerald refused to allow the visitors to choose a player from the crowd present.

In the eighteenth Lombardi cracked one of Hokanson's pitches to deep center field which finally rolled beneath an automobile and before it could be retrieved he had circled the bases for the winning run. Previous to the winning blow the Y had many chances to score but failed to come through.

NONANTUM TAKES LEAD IN FINAL SERIES

Nonantum took the lead in its best three games out of five series with Silver Lake for the championship of the Newton twilight league at Cabot Park with a 6 to 4 victory. "Chick" Morris, Nonantum star first sacker, who has been doing some healthy hitting recently, continued his spurge to provide the fireworks.

The second game was to have been played last night but the rain caused a postponement. Tomorrow afternoon the teams will meet again and if other games are necessary they will be played Sunday afternoon and Labor Day at Cabot Park.

A Willing Slave ★ ★ ★

that the Modern "Princess" may be at her ease

In the glamorous days of the Araby of old, women lived in perfumed luxury. Their courtyards were rose-draped and fountains sang, and the golden hours knew never a thought of arduous toil. Slaves there were to do every bidding. To be beautiful and to remain beautiful was almost a law.

Today . . . some women know almost equal release from human bondage . . . they are free to come and go; free to dance and play and read and relax, free to really live.

The obligation of housekeeping is admittedly arduous. It can very easily make a slave of a woman.

But Gas has come, with new benefits discovered continually — to give women back leisure and ease. It cooks food for her and cooks it better, more easily — it brings her the most efficient of refrigeration systems — it provides hot water for scores of uses — it solves problems and lightens burdens — at such a frugal cost.

● In a thousand ways Gas is the Magic Lamp of today . . . a servant and a "good genie" . . . a symbol of modern achievement, serving you faithfully, painstakingly, day in and day out.

NORUMBEGA DISTRICT COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Many church schools in this District will be observing "Religious Education Week," in September or early October. The Norumbega District recommends such a week, as an opportunity to focus the attention of the whole church upon the values of the church school, including the Young People's department, and upon the importance of leadership training. Such a "Week" may be planned by local church school officers with their special needs in mind. It may include a sermon upon religious education, organization meetings of various groups, teacher and parent meetings, visiting in the homes by Sunday School teachers, or other features deemed advisable.

In connection with such a "Week," the following two quotations are significant:

"The Sabbath School is at the very root of the religious life, and with all its benefits to the individual and to the nation, and for this reason I cordially commend all efforts to enlarge its field of usefulness," President Hoover.

"The Sunday Schools furnish a great agency by which spiritual ideals are made a part of the life of the younger generation and the growth of such schools is of inestimable benefit in providing a higher type of citizenship." Former President Coolidge.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. Bentley

The Last Rows of Summer

A Summer of dogs and detours! Newton seemed to be trying its official utmost in establishing records for restraint of canines and reconstruction of streets. Each project gave many citizens considerable to grumble about, but the experience has been good for us. I speak with that judicial calm that characterizes one with no leash to tug and no car to drive. Unconcerned and without prejudice, I repeat, as a father to a fretful child, "There, there, we'll be all the better for it."

It was unfortunate for those possessing both cars and dogs that they were confronted with the double problem. Still, if you don't mind, we won't go into the need of the folly of keeping the bow-wows in tow. There has been sufficient controversy over that. Furthermore we are certain to have some more hot weather this year which should discourage argument. Making the streets safer for motor aristocracy and democracy is another and a pleasanter topic.

You may wonder why on top, or rather under everything else, there should have come the laying of the five-feet (diameter) water main to supply Boston and the rest of the Metropolitan district. What a picture that makes of Washington street between West Newton and Newton. The city is not to be scolded for this additional muddled-up condition. Neither is it responsible for that situation that kept Washington St. Ward 7, a shell-torn area while the State blocked one end of Charlesbank road. It seems there were more water pipes along by the river banks which, sounds fair enough except that folks couldn't drive their dogs down on the marshes for a run. Park street was ripped open for a while and so Tremont street got all the traffic. As if Tremont street hadn't enough already, with rattle-trap Elevated cars making their own noise and causing radio static in every house!

You couldn't much blame folks for getting all hot and bothered. There was the mercury out for an altitude record and the daily papers printing regularly "No relief in sight." Many were away, of course, and escaped all this trouble, but enough were left behind to worry. Some people had an idea the dogs were better off than they were, but that's because their nerves were jumpy.

Hooray for the happy ending! Just when every now and then somebody was threatening to move to some other place "where things were run different," out comes Mayor Weeks' announcement that the tax-rate had been lowered and figures showed that the valuation hadn't been boosted to accomplish this boon. The kickers pulled in their hoofs (hooves, if you're fussy) and grudgingly admitted that you can't find a burg half as worthwhile as a home city as Newton.

"Made in France"

Many a moon shall wax and wane before I see another "talkie" as gratifying as "Under the Roofs of Paris." This film, made in Paris under the direction of Rene Clair, is interesting of itself and also because it shows what Hollywood does not know about the art of motion picture photography. They offered Rene Clair his own price to come to Hollywood and teach them how. He declined, saying it was his choice to work and experiment as he had been doing without interference. Of course he meant to convey a lot that he did not say.

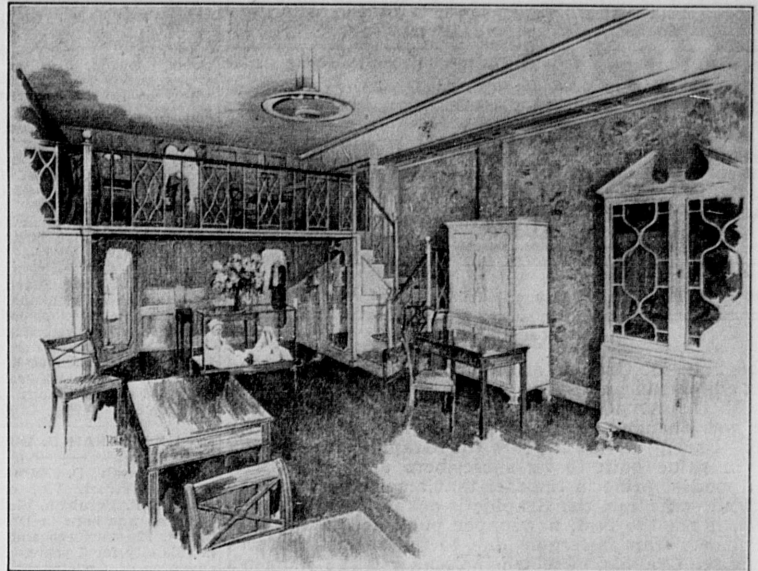

Naturally, this picture is billed under its French title, "Sous les Toits de Paris" and is shown only in those smaller temples of the cinema where the audience is put down as "mostly highbrow." Since anybody, including a middle brow, who has the price of admission paid for him, is admitted. Neither was I handicapped because of my ignorance of the French language. In the first place there were no subtitles to worry me and in the second the dialogue was reduced to a minimum. This famous director has an idea that talk is useful only to bring out some vital point in the plot. In this country it seems to be the notion that a talking machine attached to a screen picture demands a constant stream of words. The result is that there is an incessant volume of conversation and noises. Rene Clair gets it over quite as forcibly and you haven't had your ears tortured.

The explanation of the admitted superiority of "Under the Roofs of Paris" is that the director is a highly intelligent man, with an appreciation of the resources of the camera. He has an imagination that is not wallowed in by orders from the box-office and movie "men." Furthermore, his actors know the art of pantomime and can convey to their audiences by facial expression, rolling eyes, movements of the hand and body etc., that which closes up and chatter seek but fail to do in other films.

Please do not get the impression that I am setting up all foreign films above those made here. That would be foolish for there are films sent us from across the water which prove convincingly that their makers are far behind Hollywood. I would merely stress the brilliant artistry of Rene Clair, whose star, I hope, will eventually shine for all us and not alone for those who are sometimes called "intellectuals" and other harsh names.

Street Dreams

I had a dream the other night. It was a pleasant one, although unusual. I was engaged in solving the problem of traffic congestion in Nonantum square and as you may readily believe a great many things happened in a short space of time as is the case in such matters. The cause of my dream I attribute to various things. Among them was a "talkie" I had attended which dealt with gang warfare. Another was a hearty meal of rich foods served at a home where I was a dinner guest and where we discussed Nonantum square's mix-up. Other causes I am content to trace to my general condition which comes of not having had a vacation.

The first spectacle presented to my distorted vision was a series of vergeres provided exclusively for vehicular traffic. There were no side-walks in sight and therefore no pedestrians. I wondered how I came to be there and realized that I was on top of a building. It resembled the old opera house which appeared to have been made over into a luxurious roof garden, with pent houses and other dazzling features. Then it dawned on me that the roof of the opera house was a station for an airplane line. It was good to find some use made of the building at last.

I was looking down in Nonantum square which was busier than 42nd Street and Broadway. All our local business blocks had entrances in the roofs. The other entrances were in the cellars. The upper of course were for airplane passengers and the lower for those driving their cars in the underpasses. It appeared that the street had been given over entirely to gunmen who were hiding in doorways and shooting their machine guns at passing automobiles.

Naturally, I wondered, as a representative of the walking classes, where pedestrians got off or on. It seems they were equipped with contrivances resembling stilts and equipped with springs. By pressing a lever each pedestrian was able to spring from one roof to another. It may appear complicated as I set down in print, but I recall how simple it was. In fact, I waked up with a feeling that I had not slept in vain.

How About Yours?

Let's talk about vacations. No, I do not mean exactly that, but let me tell you three vacation incidents which impressed me this summer. The first is the resourcefulness of a friend of July he assured me that he was tired of writing the same old message on souvenir postcards. Instead, as a labor-saving device, he was going to have a rubber stamp made with fitting words of greeting. Believe it or not, Mr. Ripley and others, my friend did provide himself with a stamp and mine who regularly each year makes a trip abroad. Before he left in early July he had obtained for himself a rubber stamp and there, printed in green ink were the words, "Having a great time. Wish you were here. F. D. D." Beneath he had written in his usual flowing style, "How do you like my stamp?"

The second is about a man whose family was in Europe for the summer and who decided to spend a week-end at one of the larger and socially important beaches. He had done no

60 YEARS OLD

With this issue the Graphic enters upon its 60th volume and its present editor and publisher completes 31 years of service. First published for a short time as the Newton Republican, the name was changed to The Newton Graphic about fifty years ago. During all these years the Graphic has steadily increased in value both to its subscribers and advertisers. We take a modest pride in the fact that among persons who understand the situation, the Graphic is acknowledged as one of the best, if not the best, newspaper published in the suburbs of Boston. This is largely due to the special features which mark the Graphic, of which the leader is the Women's Club department and which is well known throughout the state. This feature was inaugurated twenty-five years ago under the able direction of the late Grace M. Burt, and which has been enlarged and brought up to date by the present editor of that department, Miss Emma D. Coolidge. Mr. Bentley's weekly article, "One Thing and Another" has also been a factor in the improvement of the Graphic and has aroused considerable favorable comment. During these later years Mr. Powers' "About Town" column has called attention to many phases of municipal life which would otherwise be neglected or forgotten. In the advertising field we are proud of the fact that the Graphic has twice won first place for the handsome silver cup offered by the National Editorial Association for "merited achievement" in advertising. All in all, we believe the Graphic has been of real service to the community in the past, and it shall be our part in the future to see that its high standing is worthily maintained.

Bob Washburn in his weekly letter to the Boston Transcript pays a deservedly complimentary tribute to Rev. Dr. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity church of Newton Centre. The following paragraph epitomizes the article:

"Here is a man who appeals to those to whom life looks good; to those who want peace right off now and here, and not simply after death; and to those who look to religion quite as much as a preparation for life as a preparation for death. Into these lives this man fits. In this way he has become a field marshal in those legions which are sieging the citadels of sin in the cause of Christ."

PARAMOUNT THEATRE, NEWTON

The showman of today is always glad to feature a Richard Dix picture. It is said he has never made a picture that has not clicked with the public. In his latest picture, "The Public Defender," Richard Dix assumes the role for which the picture is named. He is supported by Irene Dunn. "Their Mad Moment" with Dorothy MacKall is the co-feature. It is a story of a mad society butterfly facing a loveless marriage yet longing for romance. With her in the picture is Warner Baxter.

For the last half of the week memories of Rudolph Valentino in "Son of the Sheik" will be aroused by Ramon Novarro in "Son of India." Novarro is the only star who has ever come near to filling the place of Valentino. He is surrounded by a wonderful cast including Madge Evans, a new and beautiful star with a lovable personality, Aubrey Smith and Conrad Nagel.

There will be a continuous performance on Labor Day but no bargain matinee. The latter will be resumed and continued indefinitely.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sheridan of the Colonna are moving to Wellesley. —Master David Locke has returned from Camp Marienfeld in New Hampshire.

—Miss Katharine Locke of Kirkstall road has returned from Sargent camp, where she has been a councillor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 6.

The Golden Text is: "Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright" (Ecclesiastes 7:29).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Genesis 1:26, 27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man, made in His likeness, possesses and reflects God's dominion over all the earth. Man and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflect, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God" (p. 516).

swimming for some years so purchased a bathing suit, determined to disport himself in the surf. He hadn't been in the place long before he donned his nice new water togs and went out for a swim. He succeeded in giving himself a quarter-hour of real enjoyment and was about to wind-up with a final plunge. Just at that moment two children, who had ventured far beyond the point of safety, were heard to cry for help. When the subject of our sketch reached them they had become panic-stricken. There was no one to assist him and he was compelled to resort to every device known to swimmers. The children lost their heads and it was only after a fierce struggle that our friend brought the youngsters ashore. He made nothing of the incident, but the summer colony no sooner heard of it than they acclaimed him one of the greatest heroes of modern times. In fact they were so demonstrative in their praise that he decided to cut short his vacation and return home. He couldn't stand the fuss they were making over him. "And I'll be damned if ever go swimming again as long as I live," he declared.

Now for the third. In an office building the employees of a firm occupying an entire floor decided to do something for the little old scrub-woman. She had always been patient and smiling as well as faithful and efficient. The girls in the office thought it would be nice to send her on a vacation and the boys agreed. A sufficient amount of money was raised and the old lady was privileged to enjoy a fortnight's rest at a farm in a rural community. She returned, looking thoroughly rested, tanned and in good spirits. The office crowd wanted to know did she have a good time. "Sure," she replied. "But, O, my, wasn't it lonesome!"

What Flavor, Please?

A drop in the price of ice cream, at least on the part of some manufacturers, was announced within a week by the State Division on the Necessaries of Life. I noticed the daily papers didn't do much with it. Maybe it was one of those doggy days when nobody cared about ice cream or anything else. At any rate the State Division itself has had the subject on its official mind for weeks. The Division, as you know, cannot do much about high prices except investigate and make public its opinion as to what should be a fair price for this and that. Publicity is expected to do the rest, including consumers' indignation.

The whole thing started when people went into the State House and they felt they were paying too much money for ice cream, especially as the cost of ingredients was no higher and in fact lower than usual. Then the Division, which cannot investigate anything that is not a necessity, got an opinion from the Attorney General that ice cream is a food. Food, therefore, being a necessity, the Division went right ahead and satisfied itself that ice cream was costing us eaters too much. In other words, manufacturers should be satisfied with a smaller profit. People were advised to buy ice cream by the gallon and save money. You and I know folks, both young and old, who don't seem to get their fill of ice cream, but I doubt if they could put away a gallon even if they were to save thereby $3 or $4.

The latest announcement from the division is that you can buy a pint of ice cream for 15 cents that once sold for 30. I don't know because I have to avoid ice cream for the reason—well, I like to have my clothes and when they're too snug I suffer. And, besides, one doesn't buy new suits every day.

But doesn't this all show how important ice cream has become? There was a time, some of us can well remember, when a dish of ice cream was a treat and a rare one at that. It sometimes came as a reward for good behavior or furnished the chief attraction at a party. Now, however, it is in everybody's mouth every day of the week. The youngsters are no longer thrilled at mention of ice cream. They don't clap their hands as we did and jump up and down. In fact, you've got to show our present generation of boys and girls a lot more than that to get them excited.

So, I don't know whether the ice cream market is going to do a bigger business than it used to, but I do know that it will be eaten and wish I wasn't overweight myself.

CHEVROLET TRUCKS

priced as low as $440

complete with

Chevrolet-built bodies

Chevrolet manufactures trucks of both 1/2-ton and 1 1/2-ton capacities in three wheelbase lengths. A number of the popular 1/2-ton models are illustrated at the right.

Investigate these trucks from any angle and you will find them outstanding.

Take the question of first-cost—and you learn that the Chevrolet Six is one of the lowest priced trucks you can buy.

Look into the matter of economy—and you discover that many leading fleet owners report the Chevrolet Six to be more economical to operate than any truck they have ever used, regardless of the number of cylinders.

Investigate stamina, reliability and upkeep cost—and you find that Chevrolet owners frequently report such records as "20,000 miles without opening the engine"—"50,000 miles and still dependable"—"ten months with practically no expense for repairs."

As for speed and power, Chevrolet gives you a six-cylinder 50-horsepower engine—very fast, very flexible, and 25% more powerful than the engine of any other truck in the lowest price field.

And when you consider capacity, you find that Chevrolet's longer wheelbase, long sturdy frame, and 4 long semi-elliptic springs permit the mounting of extra-large bodies. These bodies are Chevrolet-built, stoutly reinforced and exceptionally smart and trim. Moreover, they are available in styles exactly suited to every business need.

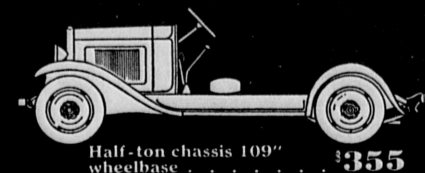

Obviously, here is a line of trucks that deserves your attention, whether you plan to buy a fleet or a single unit. Before you buy a truck for any purpose, get all the facts about Chevrolet's complete line of six-cylinder haulage units. Your Chevrolet dealer will supply you with full information.

Mattress Co. Buys Old Newton Factory

New Industry To Employ Local Labor at Old Saxony Mills

Newton is to gain a new industry employing 150 local men. The Rose-Derry Corporation, manufacturers of "Derry Made" and "Slumber Queen" mattresses, established for many years in Derry, New Hampshire, in accordance with their expansion program, have purchased the plant formerly occupied by the Saxony Woolen Mills at 59 Chapel street, Nonantum, and will concentrate their business there. As this sale is the first of its kind reported in Greater Boston for many months, it presents additional proof that this section of Newton has distinct advantages as a manufacturing centre.

The plant possesses two acres of floor space and is adapted to the efficient production plants of this concern. The building is so constructed that natural daylight is available on all four sides and on the roof. It is high studded, the height of the main ceiling being about nine feet, and building is thoroughly modern, which makes it especially adapted to the strict sanitary requirements of the business. The floors are of hard wood and the walls and ceilings are painted a glossy white.

The production management is to adopt a plan which is an innovation in the manufacture of mattresses, but which has been used in the Ford and other automobile manufacturing plants for many years. It is the straight-line method which is very efficient. The raw material will be received at one end of the building and after traveling past the entire force, a distance of approximately a tenth of a mile, it will emerge as a finished product.

The Rose-Derry Corporation will employ local men, bringing only a few key men from its old plant in New Hampshire. The absorption of a hundred and fifty men in an established and prosperous industry will be no mean boost in relieving local unemployment.

MORE BITTEN BY DOGS

A report that Edward Fessenden, 23 years old, of 26 Melville avenue, Newtonville, was bitten by a dog was made to the Health Department Wednesday by Dr. William T. O'Halloran of Newtonville. Monday Miss Vera MacDonald, 21, of 507 Centre street, Newton was bitten by a dog said to be owned by a resident of Commonwealth avenue, Brighton. She was taken to the St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment for nervous shock. The dog was taken for examination and observation for rabies.

Fatal Accident At West Newton Station

Boston Teacher Has Dizzy Spell—Staggered Onto Tracks

Miss Marie B. Riley of 12 Putnam street, West Newton, a Boston teacher, was struck and killed by an inbound train at West Newton at about 7:47 yesterday morning, and Donald H. Pallette of 43 Southgate park, West Newton, a teacher in the Waltham senior high school, in attempting to rescue her from in front of the onrushing train, was also hit but miraculously escaped with but a broken collar bone and other minor injuries.

Miss Riley, who was the kindergarten principal at the Quincy school on Tyler street in Boston, was on her way to begin her first day of the school year. She left home feeling in usual health, but seemed to be seized by a dizzy spell and staggered in front of the train as it was pulling into the station.

Pallette, who had come to the train to see his wife off for her work in Boston, says that he saw Miss Riley stagger in front of the train and immediately realizing the situation tried to pull her back. The next thing he remembers was coming to in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. The front step of the first coach struck them and threw them both to the platform.

They were taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance by Patrolmen Cody, Hammett and Goddard. Soon after arrival there Miss Riley died and it was found that she had suffered a fractured skull. Pallette was found to be suffering from a broken collar bone and cuts and bruises about the face.

Miss Riley was the daughter of John E. and Mary A. Riley of 12 Putnam street, West Newton. She was born in New Britain, Conn., but had spent most of her life with her family in West Newton. For seventeen years she had been a successful teacher in the Boston public schools. Mr. Riley, her father, is a well known real estate dealer and is prominent in Knights of Columbus circles, being at present president of the secretaries' association.

Funeral services will be held in St. Bernard's Church at nine o'clock Monday morning, and interment will be in the Holy Cross Cemetery of Waltham.

Besides her parents, Miss Riley is survived by two brothers and a sister, Mrs. Robert Leonard of Swampscott, John W. Riley of Cohasset, and Wilfred J. Riley of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Pallette was recently elected to the faculty of the Waltham High School as a teacher of science and mathematics. He is thirty-one years of age. The Pallettes have recently moved to West Newton.

Accepts Call To Central Church

Rev. R. S. Merrill To Preach First Sermon Sept. 20

Rev. Randolph S. Merrill of Longmeadow, Mass., recently given a unanimous call to become the minister of the Central Congregational Church of Newtonville, begins his ministry in that village next week. His first preaching service will take place on Sunday morning, the twentieth.

Late last June, Mr. Merrill presented his resignation to the members of the First Church of Christ of Longmeadow and brings to a close in that beautiful suburban parish, next Sunday, a long and consecrated ministry, covering thirteen years. He succeeds Dr. Arthur M. Ellis who this summer terminated a ministry of more than seven years at Central Church.

REV. RANDOLPH S. MERRILL

Mr. Merrill was born in Paterson, N. J., is a graduate of Amherst College and of Union Theological Seminary, where he was a schoolmate of Dr. Boynton Merrill of the Second Church in West Newton. His first pastorate was at Kennet Square, Pennsylvania, when he was minister of the First Baptist Church. In 1918 Mr. Merrill went to Longmeadow and had a most successful ministry. His work among the young people has been outstanding. The attendance of the Church School doubled so that the Community House where the school meets was soon outgrown and one department has been moved to one of the public school buildings. This summer Mr. Merrill has conducted personally the Vacation Bible School, which he organized several years ago. The church during his ministry passed from the status of being a village church to that of a suburban church in a beautiful residential section. Its membership has grown remarkably with nearly six hundred members having joined the church during Mr. Merrill's pastorate. Having gone to Longmeadow when the church was facing great difficulties, he now leaves it for Newtonville in a strong spiritual and financial condition. In addition to his immediate church interests, Mr. Merrill has been influential in denominational contacts. He has also taken a keen interest in town affairs, having served as one of the trustees of the Goldthwait Fund of the town. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Springfield and of the Longmeadow Country Club.

Mrs. Merrill is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Robert M. Woods of Hatfield. She is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and has been particularly active with her husband in church and community affairs. Both are gifted musicians and they have created effective choirs with the young people of the church. Mrs. Merrill has served in the church school as a superintendent and has been prominent in the Longmeadow Maternal Association, the Longmeadow Women's Club and other civic enterprises.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill have one daughter, Janet. They are already well known to many Newtonville people and their coming is widely anticipated. They will live in the Manse on Foster Street, which during the summer has been renovated for their occupancy. Mr. Merrill becomes the thirteenth minister of Central Church during its more than sixty years of notable history in the life of Newton.

The membership of the church is about seven hundred, and the Church School enrolls four hundred young people. The activities of the various young people's organizations, the Women's Association, Central Club and the place of the Church in the community will present many attractions to the leadership of Mr. Merrill. His first official appearance will be before the Standing Committee of the Church at its regular meeting on the evening of Thursday, September 17th.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CLINIC

A clinic will be held at the Newton Hospital on Monday morning, September 14th, from 10 to 12 o'clock at which any Newton resident 10 years of age or over who has had infantile paralysis within the past fifteen years, is invited to be present. This clinic is being held under the supervision of the State Department of Public Health for the purpose of receiving donations of blood to be used in serum to treat cases of infantile paralysis in sections of the State where the disease is prevalent. The amount of blood to be taken from each person will not be sufficient to cause inconvenience.

Two cases of infantile paralysis reported over the week-end brought the total number of cases in the city during the summer to six. On Saturday, two years old, of 39 Crafts street, Newtonville, was stricken with the disease. He was removed to the Children's Hospital. Tuesday the sixth case reported was that of Mary Bradshaw, six years old, of 133 Park street, Newton.

FIRE THREATENS CHURCH

Fire in a pile of leaves under the steps of the building threatened the Methodist Episcopal Church at Centre Street and Langley road, Newton Centre on Tuesday. A passerby who noticed the blaze hurried to the fire station nearby on Willow street and notified the fire department. Apparatus quickly responded and the blaze was rapidly extinguished with but slight damage to the steps. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

Edited by WARREN K. BRIMBLECOM

OVER 100 OUT FOR NEWTON H. FOOTBALL

About one hundred young would-be football players reported to Coaches Ralph M. Sanborn and Charles Conside yesterday morning for the first practice session of the season for the Newton High School football team. Among the group were nine letter men from last year's eleven and a number of intermediate and junior varsity players of 1930. Two sessions were held yesterday and two more will be held today with none tomorrow. Beginning next Monday with the opening of school, afternoon sessions will be held with the opening game at Arlington on Sept. 26th in view as the first test of the season. Light apparel and light work will be in order during the hot weather and until the squad rounds into condition for more strenuous work. No scrimmage will be held until the end of next week when Coach Sanborn will have more of a line on his candidates. As coaches for the intermediates and junior varsity teams have not been definitely selected Coach Sanborn ordered only those who have had previous varsity, intermediate or junior varsity experience to report tomorrow along with two transfers who are almost certain to be retained on the varsity squad. The remainder will not report again until Monday when other coaches will be on hand to take them in charge.

Coach Sanborn considers the material very fair as many of those reporting have filled out during the summer into promising material. It is rumored that Tommy Lyons, who shared the centre berth last year with Bob Patterson, will not be available. During the early part of the baseball season Lyons suffered from an infected hand and it is said to be still troubling him. Patterson is on hand weighing six or eight pounds more than a year ago and is ready to give a real battle to other centre candidates. Among the leading candidates for the pivot position are Horace Wood, intermediate varsity centre a year ago, who reported weighing 165 pounds and 6 ft. 1 in. in height, Paul Andres, brother of Hal and Phil Andres of recent athletic fame at Newton High, and Alexander Kevorkian, Charles Houghton, centre on the Huntington School team last year, is one of the two transfers mentioned. In weight and height he stacks alongside of Wood. It is possible that he may be given a thorough tryout at tackle.

The guard material includes three letter men of the 1930 outfit in Frank Vassalotti, George Gullian and Anthony DiMaio. Gullian is also a prospective tackle. Among the guards with intermediate experience is Oscar Wikstrom from whom much is expected. The tackle positions present the most uncertain problem at present although the shift of either Houghton or Kevorkian from centre and Gullian from guard may solve the question. Bill Giles who played tackle considerably last year but failed to make his letter because of scholastic difficulties at the close of the season, is on hand again and regarded as an excellent prospect.

Fred Perkins is the only end left over from last year's varsity but a number of 1930 intermediates are among the foremost candidates. This group includes Tom Malloy, Minot Guild, Francis Tischer, and Herbert Levenson.

The backfield candidates are headed by Warren Huston, sophomore star last year, Bill Duane, Willie Mullen and Walter Blackler, all letter men. The intermediates have sent up two complete sets of backs which will give the veterans a race for the starting honors. Among the leading backs on hand are Harry Henschell, Douglas Sloane, Jim Cahill and Joe Pescod. Sloane and Cahill are star track men and once loose will be difficult to stop. Henschell is another fast lad who can step along with the best of them.

In addition to those mentioned the candidates upon whom Coach Sanborn is concentrating at present includes the following: Edgar W. Allen, Robert C. Bankart, Robert E. Buell, Robert Burman, Albert Carvelli, William E. Cochran, Wm. J. Conway, Wm. W. Cusumano, Stuart D. DeBard, Gould C. Decker, Albert DeGeorge, Vernon Drown, Paul W. Fitzpatrick, Biagio Geraci, John E. Giles, Roger J. Gilmore, Jack Goodbar, Francesco Gorgone, Richard A. Kiel, Jack H. Hendrick, Thomas R. Kinnaird, Clifford S. Kittredge, Wm. Fred Hawley, Robert D. Peakes, Albert and Eliot Robinson, William A. Wales, and Bolton Wilder.

SPORT NOTES

Klauer Places Second

Fred Klauer, former Belmont High and Colgate athlete now residing in Newton, placed second in the 100-yard dash at the field and track games at Sturbridge last Sunday. Klauer represented the B. A. A.

Gatchell Best Maine Quarterback

Creighton Gatchell, star centre on the Newton High football eleven a few years ago, is regarded as one of the best field generals in Maine besides being a strong safety man. He has been playing quarterback for the Polar Bears the past two years being a senior this coming year. Harris M. Plaisted of West Newton, substitute quarterback last year is ineligible and will be lost to the team.

Dartmouth Candidates Out

Candidates for the Dartmouth eleven had their initial workout Wednesday at Hanover. Among the eighty-two men on hand was Bob Bennett, former Newton High and Exeter athlete. Coach Cannell had last year's undefeated freshman team with Bennett at right halfback intact and had them run through signals as they did last fall.

THOUSANDS PAY HOMAGE TO OUMET

Five thousand admirers and friends of Francis Oumet, new national open golf champion, stormed the Newtonville railroad station last Sunday evening to pay homage to the Woodland golfer. The story of Oumet's victory after seventeen years of "near" glory after a splendid accomplishment in defeating two British stars at Brookline who a lad of twenty is new and will possibly never be repeated. Nor was there anything ever like the reception accorded the popular golfer on his return the other evening.

There was no organization, no brass bands, no silk hats, none of the dignity of a formal affair. The spontaneity of the affair was amazing. Long before Oumet's train was due at 10:24 the crowd began to gather from near and far. Half an hour before train time Washington street was jammed with cars, parking spaces were at a premium and the crowd milled around the station on Bowers street, lined Washington street and surged onto the footbridge which overlooks the track. The Newton police had prepared somewhat for the situation, boarding up one of the stairways to the train platform and enforcing regulations in an attempt to keep the platform clear.

There were many golfers in the crowd and also many who were not golfers, just plain admirers of the sportsman who had battled through. The Woodland Club members were on hand practically to a man, with Charley Shaw, Walter Weidig and W. A. McSheffery taking charge. Long before the train came in the police were forced to make many exceptions in admitting "friends" of Oumet to the platform and consequently it was pretty well filled when the actual "arrival" came. A stampede followed, men, women and children running down the platform and tracks towards the rear of the train to greet Oumet with a tremendous cheer when he appeared on the steps of the last car. Photographers' flashlights turned the night into day. Finally Oumet and his family found their cars and headed for their home near Lake street, Brighton. But they were not alone, although the police held up all traffic until the Oumets and their chief escorts were started down Walnut street, for other admirers soon caught up with them. Another greeting awaited Oumet at his home, where the neighbors stormed the house in their desire to congratulate him.

The affair was replete with "human interest," from the man who climbed out of the window of an outboard local on learning what the gathering was about, remarking that "anyway there'll be a train home tomorrow," to the motorcycle officer who "didn't even bother to frown" when the cavalcade of autos following the champion home failed to observe even a red traffic light.

But that was just the beginning of the home-coming. Oumet's first Monday noon a luncheon in his honor was held at the Woodland Club. For nearly twenty years Oumet has brought recognition and honor in golf to his club and it was an informal expression of the regard in which his fellow members hold him when they presented him with a $2000 Buick sport model car. The presentation took place on the veranda of the club, with the car hidden by the crowd. When the keys were handed to him the crowd spread to disclose the magnificent present. After expressing his appreciation Oumet told of the intimate incidents connected with the tournament in which he brought back again, after a ten-year stay in other parts, the famous $7000 gold trophy emblematic of the championship, the Havemeyer Cup.

B. U. Candidates Out

Candidates for the Boston University varsity football team reported to Coach Mahoney at Nickerson field on Wednesday with four veterans in the group of twenty-seven on hand. Ten more letter men are expected Monday including Dan Harrington, former Newton High star who was in the opening line-up of every Terrier game last fall as a sophomore. Wm. J. Chamberlain of Auburndale, substitute centre last year was among the candidates reporting Wednesday.

Ober and Klauer Place

In the N. E. A. A. U. events at the annual gathering of the Scottish clans at Caledonian Grove on Labor Day two local athletes, Julius Ober and Fred Klauer, representing the B. A. A. placed. Ober placed fourth in the six-mile junior title run. Klauer won the 100-yard dash with a handicap of 2 1/2 yards and placed second in the hop, step and jump with a mark of 45 ft. 1/2 inch. He had a handicap of 2 ft. in the latter event.

Len Clark to Coach

Leonard Clark of Newton Highlands, former Newton High and Dartmouth football star, has accepted a position as teacher-coach at Westminster School at Simsbury, Conn. He will be an instructor of French and mathematics and will coach football, hockey and baseball. Clark was regarded as one of the best interfering backs at Dartmouth in recent years but was confined to the bench in many of the major games because of injuries received at mid-season.

Duane Out for Crusader Eleven

Francis "Moon" Duane, former Newton High athlete, is among the candidates for the Holy Cross varsity eleven. Duane is one of three quarterback candidates expected to substitute for Captain Phil O'Connell.

MARTIN WINS NEW ENG. TITLE

Donald Martin of West Newton won the title of champion of the New England Public Courts over the weekend in the third annual N. E. tourney at Forest Park, Springfield. In annexing the title the local youth scored a straight set victory over Edward Fuller, 16-year old Salem schoolboy, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Despite the closeness of the score Martin displayed a brand of net work far superior to his younger opponent and gained a well-deserved triumph and title. Martin is a former Boston University tennis captain, Newton city champion and has figured prominently in many sectional tourneys in recent years. He succeeds Robert Haire of Providence, R. I., as public parks tennis king. Haire, victor in 1929 and 1930 failed to survive the first day's play in his title defense, losing to young Fuller. Martin had little difficulty in the early rounds and in the final round got right down to business against Fuller.

Martin waded through the field of 25 contestants, the largest ever to compete in this event, personally accounting for Charles M. Bennett of Springfield and Max Schwartz of New Haven in addition to the final sortie with Fuller.

In the final Fuller ran up a lead of 3-0 and seemed about to run off with the first set. But Martin, as in his earlier matches, apparently was feeling out his opponent for he opened a serious attack that netted him five successive games and placed him in a commanding position. He displayed a terrific forehand shot and an equally powerful backhand that completely mastered young Fuller. In addition the local youth kept in reserve a neat "cut" shot that brought him valuable points. Fuller, content to lob and play for an opening, was often making his own errors.

After overtaking his opponent in the first set Martin was master of the situation. In the final set his opponent weakened rapidly and it became just a matter of finishing the match.

NONANTUM WINS TWI LEAGUE TITLE

The Nonantum A. A. captured the championship of the City of Newton Amateur Twilight League on Sunday afternoon by taking the fourth game of the final series with the Silver Lake A. C. The latter team which lead the league at the close of the season's regular schedule was able to win but one game of the series which was to be the best three out of five games. Winning the game on Sunday made it unnecessary to play the fifth game which was scheduled for Labor Day.

The first game of the series was played last week Tuesday night at Cabot park with Nonantum taking the lead with a 6 to 4 victory. The second game was staged Friday night at Cabot park and Silver Lake seemed about to even the series, leading 4 to 1 at the end of the fifth inning. In the sixth inning the Nonantum outfit felled four runs and took a one run lead. Before three men were retired Umpire Donahue called the game on account of darkness. A dispute arose with Silver Lake contending that as the sixth inning was not finished the score should be recorded as of the previous inning. Rule books were consulted and it was officially declared that the final score should stand as Silver Lake A. C. had had its turn at bat in the first of the sixth and had had all its outs.

At Victory Field on Saturday the Silver Lake A. C. won a 4 to 1 victory and kept the series in an unsettled state but Sunday's game at Cabot park with an 8 to 7 victory for Nonantum carried with it the championship title. Members of the championship team will receive medals from the playground department emblematic of the twilight league title.

Sunday the Nonantum A. A. will meet the Upper Falls A. A., 1930 champions of the Hub Twilight League, in a game for championship of the city.

DOG RESTRAINING ORDER ENDS SEPT. 24

The movement to extend the dog restraining order beyond the expiration day of September 24th has failed to find much enthusiasm among city officials in Newton. The original ninety-day order passed by the Aldermen on June 22nd and which went into effect on June 27th will expire a week from next Thursday so that two weeks from today local dog owners may unleash their pets.

Health department officials are of the opinion that the order has served its purpose. Although many persons have been bitten by dogs during the restraining period only one of the animals has been found to have had the rabies. In that case the victim was the owner of the dog.

Those who favor an extension of the restraint order point out the fact that many persons have been bitten since it went into effect. The opponents of the extension use the same argument against continuing it, declaring that restraining dogs has failed to keep them from biting.

THERE MUST BE A REASON WHY MORE MOTHERS BUY HOOD'S 'GRADE A MILK THAN ANY OTHER

THERE IS A REASON. Mothers have found that Hood's Grade A is always the same uniformly rich, clean, fine flavored milk. That babies and children like it. That they thrive on it. That it arrives promptly 365 days a year. That it is delivered by a courteous salesman, and that it relieves her absolutely of any care or concern about her milk supply.

She knows that back of these things there is an organization of milk specialists devoted to a single idea. Concentrated on a great, important public service. It brings to you a protection not even attempted by any official agency. It successfully performs a function impossible to the untrained, the ill equipped, and where lack of ideals exists.

These are reasons why more mothers and more doctors buy Hood's Grade A than any other sold.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

The Thrills of Yesteryear

There is no use denying the gradual but decided falling-off of interest in receptions to world famous returned fliers. I don't know what can be done about it for if the fliers insist upon executing truly marvelous feats of aviation they cannot expect to escape ceremonies of congratulation prepared by States and cities. Having been privileged, if that is the proper word, to witness arrivals of conquering aviators since aviators began to conquer, I feel that I am in a position to make comparisons.

The reception to Col. Lindbergh was the greatest outpouring of people in Boston in many years. The latest greeting, that extended to Boardman and Polando had no such crowds. I recall that when the Colonel came back the State House was packed with people. You could scarcely move about the corridors. Employees, their friends, legislators and their constituents and others who muscled in packed the whole structure. They were not there when the men who made the remarkable non-stop flight to Turkey visited our State capitol last month. The same policemen were on hand, but instead of keeping constantly on their toes to allow the chief guest and his party elbow room, they stood around in a lonely way. There was no one to be ordered to get out of the way and the policemen yawned and looked bored.

I was wondering if the form of the reception were changed it might not make a difference. Each flier or set of fliers is obliged to go through the same set program. He is met at the East Boston airport by the committee. Escorted through the streets by a band or two and a company of soldiers he is brought to the State House to meet the Governor. Then there is a luncheon afterwards given by the Mayor of Boston. A pause in the afternoon to rest and banquet in the evening.

Nothing original about these receptions in any of our cities. If you ask what I would offer as a substitute I shall have to throw up my hands. Yet I cannot but deplore the lack of public interest. As a matter of fact the Boardman-Polando was the most successful and attractive of any of the receptions as far as arrangements and color and picturesqueness are considered. The public apparently was only mildly interested. I can't explain it and yet I wonder if the dear people would get a kick out of meeting a couple of fellows who had been to the Moon and back. Maybe so.

"Change a Five?"

It was almost midnight. There were four in the party—two young women and two young men. The girls, who had expressed a wish for a short moonlight drive after the movies, said they felt a trifle thirsty. So did the boys. The only place open was a drug store.

The fountain clerk and the store manager, alone in the store, did not clap their hands or jump up and down for joy. They were getting ready to turn the key in the front door and more business meant only more work. But the four thoughtless and thirsty customers gave their orders and took their time at the refreshment table.

When it came to going, one of the men and the two girls proceeded to the car while the other man passed a five-dollar bill to the clerk. There was not enough change in the cash register. Everything had been put in the safe for the night. The other man was called back from the car and produced the exact change.

The manager, a veteran and a cynic, could not resist a final wise-crack. Said he, "I've been 'closing' for 25 years and I never knew it to fail. About 10 minutes before 12 somebody walks in with a five-dollar bill after all the cash has been put away. Customers don't show any consideration for druggists."

"Not Any, Thank You"

I was introduced to snails as a delightful and edible food. We got no further than the pleasant ceremony of meeting, for I somehow lost further interest when offered a helping. Yet snails are food and, to quote the infallible N. Webster, "especially Helix pomatia and Helix aspersa of Europe," are pronounced esculent. You may have to take somebody's word for it but it cannot be mine.

Yes, I have seen them for sale in the Italian quarters of larger cities and also observed them brought in from the kitchen and ready for the palate of the connoisseur in delicate viands who had ordered them. If your imagination is as active as mine—and I feel it is even more so—you don't have to be told what I thought of at the moment.

However, my epicurean friend laughed. "You're like a lot of them," said he, "you don't appreciate the delicacy of this dish."

I told him I was satisfied to have tipped my hat to it and would let it go at that. Then he unfolded a little incident that took place at his own home.

The dinner that evening included a dish of snails and the family were about to partake when a friend called at the house. The latter thought the meal was over and was about to turn away, when my friend urged him to come in and draw up a chair at the dining table.

"Have some of this very rare dish?" asked the host.

"Thank you. May I ask what it is?" the friend inquired with polite caution.

"Snails," said the other.

"Snails! Great heavens, are you as poor as that?"

Nice Quiet Evenings

A Newton woman, unusually earnest in her advocacy of prohibition and its benefits, has come back from a visit in Halifax, N. S., enthusiastic over that city. It was not the local system of liquor distribution that impressed her. In fact, I am certain she did not concern herself with it since she was traveling for pleasure and not study. What did reach her was the general conservative manner of living which appeared to characterize business and amusement in Halifax.

She tells me that while stopping at the Lord Nelson for which she has the highest praise as a well-conducted hostelry, that the guests included some New York residents, in fact quite a number of them. Since Halifax is a popular resort with excursionists, who enjoy the ocean trip, the presence of many Americans is not to be wondered at.

One evening a group of these New Yorkers approached the hotel clerk and asked, "What have you got for excitement in this town?"

The only entertainment available, the clerk explained, was the "talkies."

"How about a night club where we can have some fun?" one of the party asked.

"No night clubs in Halifax," explained the clerk, who did not follow the usual custom of hotel clerks and add, "I'm sorry, possibly I can get one for you."

My informant insists that the clerk seemed rather proud of the fact that Halifax had not reached the night club stage. She didn't hear what the New Yorkers said. Three guesses as to their thoughts of Halifax!

In our younger years we were taught that the law of supply and demand was a natural law and those who violated it, in such things as cornering wheat or sugar, were held up to scorn. When supplies were low prices were high and when demand was small, prices fell. Nowadays, however, we find the governors of two states invoking martial law to prevent the natural trend of supplies absolutely needed by millions of people, and interfering with the constitutional rights of everyone to develop his own business. Twenty-five or thirty years ago, a governor who would have taken the present-day stand of Governor Murray of Oklahoma, would have been impeached in short order.

One of our subscribers, who takes an interest in public matters, calls attention to the fact that the city receives no compensation for the use of our streets for laying the huge Metropolitan water mains. He makes a strong point of the fact that this work is for the entire Metropolitan district and not for Newton alone. Consequently the city should be reimbursed for work for the benefit of all.

While strong emphasis is being placed nowadays on the matter of unemployment, we are under the impression that so far as housekeepers are concerned, the present-day remarkably low prices of food stuffs will make the unemployment situation take a back seat.

We welcome the Rose-Derry Corporation to our city and hope their advent may lead other business concerns to locate here.

Hearty congratulations to the Boston Herald on the completion of its new and splendid plant.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

The funny looking little dicers which about every other woman and girl are wearing are named after the Empress Eugenie because it is alleged that she was accustomed to wear such a lid. Some of the men would look as funny as some of the women look if they would imitate Eugenie's husband, Napoleon III, and grow "imperial" on their lips and chins.

How consistent is Governor Ely? A couple of months ago he commuted the death sentence of a brutal murderer and declared himself opposed to the death penalty. The other day he advised policemen "Shoot to kill," when combating the armed bandits who are becoming more and more numerous in this Commonwealth.

The prevalence of youthful thugs and murderers in Massachusetts indicates that sterner methods of punishment are necessary instead of the sugar and milk system which has been so advocated and practiced in late years. James Ramsey, former chief probation officer of Middlesex County is an exponent of the whipping post for those who resort to crimes of violence. Either some such real method of punishment must be used or law-abiding citizens must, as Judge Dillon suggests, carry pistols to protect themselves.

The Mayor of a nearby city is highly indignant at the further increase in automobile insurance rates. But, when his chauffeur is slightly punished for alleged reckless driving, influence is at once attempted to prevent the slight penalty being put into effect. It is largely because reckless autoists are not properly punished, that insurance rates are so high.

As we remarked in this column a couple of months back, those chiefly responsible for the high rates on compulsory insurance on automobiles are persons who make claims for fake injuries every time they are in an automobile collision, the doctors and lawyers who connive with such dishonest persons, and the insurance companies that encourage such impositions by making payments to lying imposters.

ROTARY CLUB

Mr. John P. Meade, director of industrial safety of the Department of Labor and Industry of the State of Massachusetts, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Monday at the Woodland Golf Club. He told of the ideal of the Labor Day movement and of the reduction in industrial accidents during recent years. Labor Day—the outgrowth of a simple idea expressed by Peter McGuire one Sunday in 1882—a movement to get people interested in the lofty purpose of such a day.

In 1887 Massachusetts legally adopted the first Monday after the first Tuesday in September as Labor Day. From that time to the present it has been celebrated in various ways. Gone are the Labor Day processions with their banners carrying the aspirations and beliefs of those participating. Conditions have changed, the labor movement itself has changed. It has stabilized, holds to an intelligent program aiming toward the economic welfare. Massachusetts was one of the first states to sense the coming of the machine age. In 1867 it became the first state to require factory inspections looking toward the conservation of the human side of industry.

In 1887 Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and later Ohio, the leading industrial states of the country, began to put into effect laws for the protection of industrial workers and the protection of home and community interests.

In 1912 the enactment of the Workmen's Compensation Act was an important step. Compiling of statistics in connection with that law uncovered exposures to health and danger. Other requirements were made in industry looking towards the safeguarding of the worker. All of these improvements are due exclusively to those who represented Labor Day or the sentiment for it.

Quoting from statistics Mr. Meade stated that the lives lost from industrial accidents between June 1912 and June 1930 were equal to the population of several fair sized towns. During the period mentioned there were 6,773 lives lost, mostly all men, seventy-five per cent of whom left dependents and making a social and economic problem of prime importance.

During the same period there were 22,000 cases of partial, permanent disability creating another economic problem in that all had to readjust themselves and start anew. The industry was protected and it was the consumer that paid. Taking this same problem another way Mr. Meade stated that one hundred and ten millions of dollars had been paid out for these injuries, physicians and hospitals creating another form of taxation. It is a problem that challenges the highest form of statesmanship and the thought of the people of the Commonwealth.

Early realization of the need for protection of the human side of industry caused the leading industrial states to pass laws so that instead of the one factory inspector of 1867 there are now forty inspectors handling 60,000 inspections yearly. In 1919 the department of labor and industry undertook to carry out such inspections on an intelligent basis. In that year a survey showed that out of 1750 disability cases one-half occurred on two types of machines. Rules and regulations were evolved for these machines to reduce the accidents.

In 1919 there were 18,000 machinery accidents in the state and in 1927 this number had been reduced to 6000. In 1919 there were 670 "in running gears" accidents and these were reduced to 237 in 1927. In 1919 there were 1150 accidents due to contact with belts and pulleys and in 1927 the number had been reduced to 185. Inquiry into these accidents showed the need of exhaust ventilation both at the origin and general.

Labor Day is closely associated with the conservation of the human life and the preservation of human happiness. Results are slowly manifesting themselves and are placing Massachusetts in a high place in industrial safety.

POLICE NEWS

POLICE NEWS

William McLaughlin of 21 Atherton place, Newton Lower Falls, was in the Newton court last Friday charged with removing a marker which had been placed at the boundary of his land and that of Nathaniel Seaver, retired Newton policeman. Seaver intends to erect a fence and had a surveyor define the boundaries of his property. McLaughlin told the judge that he had pulled up the iron marker just to examine it. He was ordered by the judge to allow the marker to remain where it belongs and the case was continued for a week.

Francis J. Cronin of 62 Lincoln road, Newton, was sentenced to 30 days in the Middlesex County jail by Judge Bacon last Friday. William Melia of 11 Clinton street told the judge that young Cronin on August 1 tore a screen door and busted a pane of glass at his home and he made no complaint to the police. But, when Cronin came to the Melia house on September 3rd and hurled chairs about the house, Mr. Melia concluded enough is enough and asked for protection from his too strenuous visitor.

Michael Kinchla, Jr., of 265 Pearl street, Newton, was in the Newton court last Friday charged with having pulled false alarms of fire on the night of August 27. One box pulled is at the corner of Waltham and Crafts streets, West Newton, in this city. The other box, admitted to have been pulled by the defendant and two companions, is at Pleasant and Bridge streets in Bemis. Kinchla was ordered to pay $50 to reimburse the city for the expense incurred in having the fire apparatus answer the false alarm. He was also given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. The judge stated that unless Kinchla's two companions contribute to the $50 reimbursements, warrants for their arrests will follow.

In order that she might leave for college shortly Miss Helen Makanna of Canton appeared in the Newton district court Saturday and requested an immediate hearing on a charge of speeding preferred against her by Motorcycle Officer Alfred W. Hammell. The court advanced the date of hearing and on her plea of guilty Miss Makanna was fined $10. Hammell testified that she was driving forty-five miles per hour when he halted her.

Attempting to settle a speeding case with the police officer who halted him caused Aaron Andrew of Roxbury to be arrested on a charge of bribery Saturday afternoon. According to Motorcycle Officer James Goddard who stopped Andrew for speeding after a chase on Commonwealth avenue and asked him for license and registration prior to being booked on a charge of speeding, the latter offered him five dollars to settle the case on the spot. Officer Goddard asked him if he knew what he was doing. Andrew is alleged to have replied that he did. The pair agreed to meet at the Weston Bridge to conclude the transaction a few minutes later. When Andrew gave Officer Goddard the five dollars Patrolman Timothy Curtin, who by prearrangement was nearby and witnessed the alleged bribery, stepped in and arrested Andrew. He was taken to headquarters and later released in $300. In court Tuesday the case was continued until today.

Wednesday was a busy day at the district court with a number of automobile drivers present on charges of speeding and other infractions. Janet Hollander, of 26 Tamworth road, Waban, won leniency on the plea that she was on her way to summon a physician for her sick child when she was arrested for speeding. Her case was placed on file. The case of Louise W. Hopkins of Dover was dismissed when Motorcycle Officer Alfred W. Hammell informed the court that because the case was continued from last July he was unaware that it was to come up on Wednesday and had left his notes on the case at home. For a similar reason Carl Lundy of Jamaica Plain was found not guilty of failing to slow down at intersecting ways.

The following were fined $10 each on charges of speeding preferred by Officer Hammell:

Edward E. Dunn, 20, Wellesley; Anthony Zanelia, 27, of Framingham; Margaret E. Rowe, 22, of 17 Vineyard road, Newton Centre; Ethel E. Whitehead, 55, of Boston; Max Kimmelman, 19, of Chelsea; Elizabeth G. Smith, 25, of Boston; Carolyn S. Ayres, 25, of 74 Waltham street, West Newton; Ruth G. Reed, 33, of 321 Hammond street, Newton; Ruth Mather, 17, of 180 Elgin street, Newton Centre.

Fines of $5 each for speeding were imposed on Bruno Rizza, 31, of 40 Alden place, West Newton; Mary A. Corrado, 20, of 242 Park street, Newton; and Eleanor B. Stephenson, 18, of Brookline. Henry M. Ufford, 32, of Boston, was fined $5 for failing to slow down at intersecting ways.

Louis Selman, 24, of 71 Towns street, Roxbury, was fined $25 for a second offence of speeding.

Joseph F. Pillsbury, no home, after considerable pleading, induced Judge William F. Bacon to give him a jail sentence after the court had ordered the case placed on file in court on Wednesday. Arraigned on a charge of vagrancy, Pillsbury told the court of his useless struggle to obtain work. When the court ordered the case filed he do attend her freedom. He insisted that he not want his freedom. He insisted that unless the government could provide him with a job it should place him in some institution where he would be cared for. He pleaded that he be sent to jail for six months. The court yielded and sentenced Pillsbury to the State Farm where he will be assured of work and shelter for the winter. The man was arrested Tuesday night by Patrolman Ray Taffe. He gave his occupation as a toolmaker and said he was born in Richmond, Va.

Owen Coyle, 62 Myrtle street, Waltham, was fined $100 in court on Wednesday on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 13.

The Golden Text is: "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life" (Proverbs 22:4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it" (Malachi 3:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial. Things material and temporal are insubstantial" (p. 335).

LONG-TIME EMPLOYEE TO RETIRE

James Denning of 69 Clinton street, for nearly forty years an employee of the Street Department, will shortly be retired on pension according to an announcement made recently by Street Commissioner George E. Stuart. As he has reached the age limit of sixty-five years Mayor Weeks will recommend an appropriation for funds for granting the pension by the Board of Aldermen at the next meeting on Monday night. Denning was employed as a "section man" or street cleaner in the Nonantum district throughout his years of service. He was appointed during the administration of Mayor Hubbard and was the second generation of his family to enter the street department, his father, Thomas Denning having been attached to the department in a similar capacity for many years.

BRYANT & STRATTON

The sixty-seventh year at the Bryant & Stratton Commercial School opened Tuesday with the usual large enrollment; the number of new students admitted being considerably in excess of that of last year. The daily admission of new students during the next few weeks together with the many former students who are scheduled to return during that period in order to continue their courses gives every reason to expect a total enrollment greater than last season.

The Evening Session begins Monday, September 21; the offices being open for special registration on September 16, 17 and 18 from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. and on Saturday, September 19 to 2 p. m. The large number of inquiries indicates an unusual interest on the part of employed young men and women who seek to advance themselves in business by means of evening study during the fall and winter months.

He was arrested two weeks ago by Sergeant Bannon and Patrolman Sullivan. He was given until Nov. 10 to pay the fine.

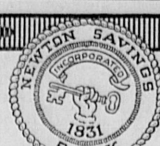

The case of Joseph Florin of 592 Boylston street, Newton Centre, who was arraigned on a charge of failure to restrain his dog was dismissed for want of prosecution in court on Wednesday.

William H. Ryan of Waltham street, West Newton, was quietly taking a nap on the bench in the corridor in front of the city Employment Office. His sleep was so profound that he aroused the suspicion of Patrolman Charles Cody, who hailed him into court on the charge of drunkenness. It is said that he resumed his hunt for a job after his release, but is avoiding the bench in front of the Employment Office.

After his wife had held the court that he had deserted her to go to another woman in Canada, Carl G. Dawson of Needham street, Newton Upper Falls, was sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction. Mrs. Dawson told the court that they were married about a year ago in New Mexico and that she had been working to support herself since their arrival in Newton. Dawson said that he could not get along with his wife and had asked her to divorce him.

Joseph A. Coleman of Watertown street, who had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness, was also sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction.

Three arrests have now been made of persons charged with stealing bottled brew from the home of Lillian Robertson of Faxon street, Newton. Yesterday, the last two, Julius Cotten of California street and Clarence a Torrio of Faxon street, both of Newton, were arrested by Patrolmen Hanon, Greene and Feeley. The third man under arrest in the case is John C. Flynn of 2 Carter street, Newtonville, who is also charged with drunkenness. All cases were continued for later hearing.

Recent Deaths

DR. ALBERT B. JEWELL

Dr. Albert Benton Jewell passed away Sept. 27th at his late residence at 13 Belair road, Wellesley, Mass.

Dr. Jewell was born in Exeter, N. H., April 29, 1850, and was descended from early New England settlers.

After completing his early education he began the study of Dentistry in the office of Dr. Mark Pray in his native town. He continued his studies in Boston, entered Harvard Dental School in the Fall of 1871, received his degree the following year and became associated with a Dr. Bishop in Worcester for a short time.

He then established an office in Newton, Mass., where his professional ability and genial personality soon won for him a large practice.

Dr. Jewell lived a long and useful life highly esteemed by his professional associates, his many patients and a wide circle of friends.

It is somewhat remarkable that during his long career in an arduous profession he was never incapacitated by serious illness and was able to continue in active practice for a period of sixty years.

He was a charter member of the Hunnewell Club, also a member of the Newton Club and various Dental Societies. He was at one time President of the Harvard Dental Society and for many years gave his services as instructor in Operative Dentistry at the Harvard Dental School.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Thomas C. Phelps of Scotland, Conn., Mrs. C. Alfred Clafin, and Mrs. Walter R. Andrews of Wellesley, and a brother, Oscar F. Jewell of New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Liggett was born in Detroit fifty-eight years ago and was married to Mr. Liggett in that city thirty-six years ago. In Greater Boston she was widely known and was identified with many philanthropic organizations and deeply interested in religious work.

During the World War, Mrs. Liggett took a prominent part in the raising of funds for the stricken countries of Europe.

Mrs. Liggett is survived by her husband, three children, Leigh B. Liggett of Chestnut Hill; Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin, also of Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Arthur Scrivener, Jr., of Darien, Conn.

GIRL SCOUTS

Camp Mary Day finished its ninth season on August 29th, after a very pleasant and successful summer. One hundred and eight Newton Girl Scouts enjoyed living in the open, on the shores of Nonsuch Pond, in the midst of silvery birches and stately cedars. Eighty girls had a visit of two weeks at the camp and twenty-eight were able to stay for four weeks. All went home much benefited by their life in the open and all of them looking forward to another season when they want "to stay longer." The outing in Scouting was stressed in the program and although it has always played an important part of the summer schedule this year the girls were encouraged to work on "woods" badges and the more "at home" work was left out of the day's program.

Of the 20 girls who came unable to swim at all, 14 learned how while at camp. Thirty-nine passed the Swimmers Merit Badge—60 the First Class Swim and 5 earned the Junior Life Saving Award.

Eighteen girls passed the Pioneer Merit Badge test—learning how to build a shack, how to use a knife and hatchet, to build a fire in the rain using no paper and cooking three meals over a camp fire. This was great fun and the girls old enough to take this badge were thrilled with the fun they had. Sixteen girls took the Flower Finder Badge and were surprised at the number of wild flowers to be found just on the camp grounds. Fifty have to be identified by each girl and there were many more to choose from.

Nine girls passed the test for Star Gazer and in spite of a good many misty nights were able to succeed in learning to identify those necessary for the test. This was fun, too, as it meant either sleeping out under the stars or getting up to see them, 9 girls will be awarded the Sailor Merit Badge this fall for the test they passed in the handling of a canoe while at camp. One of the parts of that test is a trip "up-stream" without fouling the banks—very difficult as the stream is narrow and very winding; 15 girls took First Aid with the camp nurse and are now qualified to offer their services in case of need. Other tests were Observer—which comprises 5 second class nature requirements, Craftsman, Tree Finder and Bird Finder.

Outdoor suppers, Weenie roasts, games and hikes made the program a varied one and from early morning when the camp was awakened at 7 by Reveille until Taps and 8:45 p. m. (excepting for the quiet at rest hour) the camp rang with the laughter and good times of the girls.

On Monday, August 31, the camp started the last encampment for the season—a "Recreation Camp" for Girl Scouts 16 years old or over. It is a small group but a very peppy one and besides the offered recreation a great deal of Scouting is being done.

Those comprising the group are—Helen Shepard and Julia Harvey from the Senior Troop in West Newton. Audrey Smith, Jeannette Houghton, Anne Cummings, Roxanna Martin and Lillian Wright from the Senior Troop in Newton—Allison and Betty Thorogood from the Newton Centre Senior Troop and Virginia Ewart, Lomira Mason, Mary Pope, Elizabeth Gallagher of the Senior Troop in Newton Highlands and Anne Kenefick of Troop 7, Upper Falls.

Camp will close on Saturday, September 12 after a season of ten weeks. Week-ends will be enjoyed by small groups during the autumn and already captains are securing the camp for a last overnight hike this fall.

Girl Scout Headquarters, 297 Walnut street, Newtonville will open for visits and consultations on Wednesday, September 23rd.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

North street and Albemarle road, Newtonville was the scene of an automobile accident last Friday afternoon that resulted in a severe scalp wound to Joseph Rizza, 17 years old, of 36 Cottage place, West Newton. Rizza, who was driving a car owned by Antonio Lucente of 37 Mague avenue, West Newton, was going southerly on North street and about to take a right turn onto Albemarle road when a collision occurred with a car proceeding north on North street. The latter car was operated by Anthony Pasalacqua of Somerville on the license of James R. Lupo of 511 Watertown street, Newton, who was riding beside the driver. Rizza suffered a wound on the left side of his head and was taken to a physician for treatment. Henry Milligan, Charlotte Fraser and Jennie Fraser, all of 21 Cottage place, who were riding with Rizza, were uninjured.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN THREE DAYS

With the opening of schools next Monday the Newton playgrounds will be supervised for three days a week, the playground department announced recently. Since the last of August part-time supervision has been in effect on week days. Until November supervisors will be present at the playgrounds on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and all day on Saturdays.

Women's Club Activities

Edited by MISS EMMA D. COOLIDGE

Two worthwhile events are scheduled for the month of September, preceding the general opening of Club activities. They promise opportunities for sociability, recreation and valuable information that will greatly appeal, and it is safe to predict that many Clubwomen who have been thinking that there were no Club meetings to take their time until October will avail themselves of these decidedly attractive offerings. One is into the famous Rangeley Lake section of Maine, than which at this time of year there is hardly a place that could be more appealing. Here will be held from September 15th to 17th, the New England Conference of State Federations of Women's Clubs, with a wealth of reports and addresses that will fill the mind to overflowing with information and new ideas. Clubwomen who motor down to be on hand for the opening session on Tuesday, the 15th, at 2 o'clock (eastern standard time), will either plan to stay in interesting spots on the road down, or travel into other Maine and New Hampshire beauty spots after the closing session on Thursday, the 17th, at noon. Many are planning to combine their annual trips to the mountains or Maine woods with this convention, and the trip to the Rangeleys may be a pleasure that such outings would not include were it not for this Conference—a decidedly pleasurable addition to the fall trip, therefore.

Through the hospitality and energy of Mrs. May Dickinson Kimball, chairman of Mothercraft of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, noted throughout the length and breadth of the land, Clubwomen are given a delightful opportunity for Friday, September 25th, in a visit to the quaint Dickinson-Baggs Tavern at Amherst, with its wealth of treasures in antiques which it has been the pride and joy of Mrs. Kimball to collect in the past years. While Amherst may not be a Rangeley, still it is a beautiful spot noted throughout Massachusetts, and has much to offer in natural charm, not to mention the attraction of the collection at the Tavern. Clubwomen will be glad to avail themselves of the cordial invitation to visit this tavern on this date, and to partake of a luncheon of old-time viands served on the grounds. An interesting Mothercraft program has been laid out for the day, and Grace Morrison Poole, just returned from a South American tour, will be tendered a reception. Mrs. Poole, as unopposed candidate for the presidency of the National organization—the General Federation of Women's Clubs—is, naturally, feted by Massachusetts Clubwomen with pride that their State is to have the high honor of leading the Federation in its first officer. To Clubwomen, also, she is well-known for the various offices she has held in its Clubs and for her famous lecture courses in current events. Perhaps to some she is best known as leader of the State Federation, of which she was president.

Detailed information for these two events of the month follow in full. Both should draw many Newton women to attend.

New England Conference

Mrs. Omeron H. Coolidge (Alice N.), of Rutland, Vermont, former president of the State Federation of that State, will preside as chairman of the twenty-second annual meeting of the New England Conference of State Federations of Women's Clubs, which opens at Rangeley, Maine, on September 15th, at 2 p. m. (eastern standard time), and continues until noon of Thursday, the 17th, the place of meeting being the Rangeley Lake Hotel.

Reservations should be made directly with the hotel by Clubwomen, the rate per day, American plan, per person, being $6 to $7. Information as to trains should be secured from railroad ticket offices after the new timetables of September are issued. Routes by automobiles are given as Atlantic Highway Route 1 from Boston and Providence to Portland; Route 26 to Gray; Route 100 to Auburn; and Route 101 to Rangeley. The distance from Portland is about 125 miles. There is another route from Portland through Augusta and Belgrade Lakes section which is about 16 miles longer—Route 1 to Brunswick; Route 201 to Augusta; Route 100 to just beyond Belgrade; pick up Route 140 to New Sharon; pick up Route 2 to Farmington; then Route 107 to Rangeley. The whole Rangeley region is famous for the beauty of its lakes and mountains.

The sessions will feature many prominent speakers, not the least of whom will be His Excellency, the Governor of Maine, Hon. William Tudor Gardiner, who will attend the State dinner of Wednesday evening. Following this same dinner Miss Angela Morgan will give a lecture-recital, and Mrs. Helen H. Flanders, collector of Folk Songs in Vermont, will entertain. On this occasion Mrs. Edna A. Hutchins, president of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs, will also be introduced as speaker.

On Tuesday evening a reception and dinner will be tendered Grace Morrison Poole, in honor of her candidacy for the presidency of the General Federation, and she will be presented with suitable tributes from the New England States, a gala event somewhat more intimate and informal than the gala event of Wednesday. During the session Mrs. Poole will speak on her experiences in South America, from which country she has just returned from a summer tour.

Other speakers at the sessions of the Conference will be Miss Florence M. Hale, president of the National Education Association, who will speak on "New Education for a New World"; Dr. Franklin W. Johnson, president of Colby College, whose subject will be "The Broadening Scope of Education," and Prof. Edwin Miner Wright of Bates College, who will discuss "The Maternal Feminine in Literature."

A Club Institute—and these are always intensely interesting—will be conducted by Miss Anna C. Witherle at the Wednesday morning session. Mrs. Omeron H. Coolidge, president of the Conference, will make her report, and the remainder of the program will be devoted to Club affairs presented by representatives from each State. On Thursday morning various co-operating committees will report, showing the progress of work in the unemployment situation, highway beautification and in other Club interests. The report of the election committee will be presented by Mrs. William J. McDonald, chairman, and the presentation of the new officers will follow.

Well-known Clubwomen who plan to attend from Massachusetts include Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, State president; Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker and Mrs. John H. Kimball, State vice-presidents; Mrs. Edward M. Cox, recording secretary; Mrs. David A. Westcott, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herbert F. French, Mrs. Fred B. Cross, Miss Phoebe Lee Hosmer, also State officers; Mrs. William J. McDonald, chairman of the Conference Nominating committee, and Miss Carolyn J. Peck.

State Federation

MOTHERCRAFT CONFERENCE.—Mrs. May Dickinson Kimball, chairman of Mothercraft of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, extends the hospitality of her historic Dickinson-Baggs Tavern at Amherst, on Friday, September 25th, for a Mothercraft conference, and for a reception and luncheon in honor of Grace Morrison Poole. The Conference will be held in the village church across the green from the Tavern. Another attractive feature of the day will be the planting on the village green of an Evergreen tree in honor of Mrs. Poole, these exercises being in charge of Mrs. Robert Parmenter, State chairman of Conservation.

Speakers at the Conference will be Dr. Payson Smith, Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, introduced by Mr. Jason O. Cook, superintendent of the Amherst schools, who will also introduce Mr. Carl L. Schrader, supervisor of Physical Education in Massachusetts; Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon, chairman of Education of the General Federation and member of the Boston School Committee, whose subject will be "Education of Homemakers"; Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, adviser to Mothercraft Department, whose subject will be "Mothercraft in State and General Federations"; Mrs. LaFelle Dickinson, speaking on "Mothercraft in New Hampshire Schools"; and Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter, member of the Finance committee of the General Federation and director for Massachusetts in this organization, whose appealing subject "The Mission of the Dickinson-Baggs Tavern" is sure to be most pleasingly presented, by this former State president.

Other well-known Clubwomen who will be presented at this afternoon session, which opens at 1:30 p. m., in the Second Congregational Church, welcomed by the hostess, Mrs. Kimball, following the invocation by Rev. C. F. Luther will be Mrs. Arthur L. Davis, District director; Mrs. George B. Burnette, first vice-president of the Amherst Woman's Club; Mrs. Poole, whose subject will be "Intimate Glimpses of South America"; Dr. Clara B. Burdette, extension-secretary for International Clubs of the General Federation; Mrs. William H. Purdy, chairman of the Finance committee of the General Federation; the State Federation presidents; Mrs. Edna A. Hutchins, Maine; Mrs. F. L. Spaulding, New Hampshire; Miss Bernice Tuttle, Vermont; Mrs. Warren Haskell, Rhode Island; and Mrs. Robert E. Gadd, Connecticut; and Miss Agnes Carr, whose poems appear daily in the Boston Traveler, who will give an original poem on "Mothercraft." Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, president of the State Federation, will preside as honorary hostess.

The reception will be held at 11:30 o'clock at the Tavern after which luncheon will be served.

Mrs. William J. McDonald is in charge of arrangements for transportation, and would be glad to know what Clubwomen are planning to attend, so that she can arrange for the proper number of buses. These are to leave from the Hotel Statler, Columbus avenue entrance, and the fee for the round trip is only three dollars.

There is added interest in this the first gathering of the State Federation for their season under the auspices of the Mothercraft Department, because this department was reorganized in May at the Annual Meeting as a separate department, giving it new official status, a recognition of Mrs. Kimball's tireless efforts and service that she well deserves.

Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond, of Newtonville, is returning to the faculty of the Adult Education Department of the Boston Y. W. C. A. and will give a series of talks and readings on the "Latest in Books and Plays." Mrs. Bond will give personal sketches of authors whom she knows. On Friday, October 2nd, she will meet an afternoon group at 2:30 and a later group at 6 o'clock.

Senora Eva Cornejo, also of Newtonville, will conduct her classes at the Boston Y. W. C. A. solely in Spanish. She teaches Castilian Spanish and the South American differences. These courses are arranged primarily for business use. Her first class is October 1st.

Gandhi Brings Two Goats.
Would You Live Forever?
He Borrows $65,000,000.
Poor Old Britannia.

Gandhi leaves India for England, taking for wardrobe a loin cloth, for nourishment two female goats that give milk, and for occupation a contrivance for making cloth by hand.

And such is the power of sincerity that this half starved, penniless man will be received with honor and respect not accorded to any Rajah glittering with jewels, and enriched by millions that British rule helps him to extract from miserable natives, as his sword helped him to extract them before the British came.

Perhaps you read here a suggestion that mysterious rays, alpha, beta, gamma, etc., able to penetrate our tissues, without destroying them, might prolong human life.

The learned Doctor Stoklasa, serious scientist and radiologist expert, tells the congress of radiologists in Paris that the rays may prolong human life indefinitely.

Old age means "simply a state in which the tissues of the body have become deoxidized and the state of complete deoxidization is death."

Alpha rays arrest this deoxidizing process, beta and gamma rays reoxidize the tissues, giving them new life. No calamity could be greater than making life last forever.

Imagine a world peopled by ten billion human beings, all too old to have children or accept a new idea.

While waiting for "youth from radium" the wise man will reoxidize himself with deep breathing, open windows, and exposure of his body to the sun's rays.

Rejuvenation by radium would be at least more welcome than the Voronoff method, via the glands of goats or monkeys. An old man, anxious to revive energy that will let him continue playing the fool, is a sad sight.

Our best minds should pay attention to Deterding, Dutch-British oil man, who advocates bi-metalism, letting silver resume its place as money, instead of making gold the only standard, thus destroying the buying power of eight hundred million human beings.

High finance cannot sneer at Deterding, for in finance, industry, business and the power to grab things, all over the world, Deterding has taught not one, but 100 lessons to our hardest boiled financial geniuses, the oil men. They shiver and show their upper canines when they hear the Dutchman's name.

Mark, real estate men, and you that want to borrow money on mortgage and can't, mark also.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is improving New York City with a gigantic construction program that will show what money intelligently spent can do for a big town. It is a big program amounting to about $250,000,000.

Nobody keeps $250,000,000 "loose," so Mr. Rockefeller is borrowing $65,000,000 just to go on with, from Mr. Frederick H. Ecker, head of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

This is the largest real estate loan ever made on the surface of this round, whirling and depressed globe.

You read: "American and French bankers grant a loan to Britain." That word "grant" must sound strange to British ears. When the war was on, Britain was rushing billions to France and elsewhere on the continent, sending other billions here to our industrialists and bankers.

Now, French and American bankers "grant" to Britain a loan less than one-tenth the amount that the British poured out to win the war.

They won it, but war does not pay, and they know that now.

George Bernard Shaw tells the world that Russia is "the ablest and most enlightened government in the world."

H. G. Wells, who knows more about the real world than Shaw has ever known, even when he was young and doubted his infallibility, says Russia may not get on her feet "because she has produced no body of managers, no body of educated men, free, able and willing to work together."

"An ego-centred autocrat with a political party disciplined to death, a press bureau and secret police is no substitute for that."

Russia imports her managers from America and Germany, but that does not mean that she will never produce her own.

Shaw says an American gangster in Russia "would have as much chance of survival as a rat in a yard full of terriers." Mr. Shaw does not know the American gangster.

Mr. Shaw observes that America kills you for committing murder and praises you for making money.

In Russia they kill you for making money, and put you in jail four or five years for committing murder. If that's so, the Russians would kill Shaw. He makes lots of money.

Shaw says Americans should face "the stupendous possibility that the United States may have something edifying to learn from Russia."

Possibly America could learn something from Timbuctoo, as the hare learned something about racing from the tortoise.

EIGHT MILLION CHEVROLETS

An antidote for talk of depressions and seasonal stagnation in the automobile industry was uncovered when the Chevrolet Motor Company turned out its 8,000,000th car in its less than twenty years of existence.

The "milestone" car came off the line of the assembly plant at Flint, Michigan, shortly before noon of Aug. 25, and brings the number of six cylinder cars built by this manufacturer, since the introduction of the larger type in 1929, to nearly three millions. Five million cars and trucks have been built in less than five full years.

No ceremonies attended the building of the car—a sport roadster—other than the momentary pause of workmen who watched it gradually take a finished form as it passed down the assembly line. C. E. Wetherald, newly-appointed general manufacturing manager, the car was taken to Detroit for exhibition to other company officials. Among those on hand to inspect it were W. S. Knudsen, President and General Manager; H. J. Klingler, Vice-President and General Sales Manager; J. M. Crawford, Chief Engineer, and others.

No exhibition tours or other special arrangements have been made for the car, which is now on its way, along with several thousand others built the same day, for delivery to an unsuspecting owner somewhere in the region served by the Flint plant.

The car followed the seven million Chevrolet in a year and three months, and is the 2,845,938th six cylinder car turned out by Chevrolet since the changeover from a four in 1929.

The seven millionth car was built May 28, 1930. In the period between this and the eight millionth car, the products of the company forged to first place in passenger car registrations, and took the lead among all makes in production during recent months. Although organized in 1911, the company spent twelve years building the first million cars, that event having occurred in 1923. Thereafter the second and third millionth product followed at two year intervals, and the fourth millionth came off the line on Jan. 11, 1928, less than a year after the third. Again in 1928, on Sept. 8, another million was rounded out, and on June 25th, 1929, number 6,000,000 came of the line at Flint.

CORRECTION

In last week's Graphic was an item which stated that several aliens had been discharged from jobs on the new City Hall. This item erroneously stated that the men discharged are citizens of Newton when it should have stated that they are residents of Newton, but are not citizens.

Dr. A. C. Dieffenbach Addresses Rotarians

Tells Of Institute Of Politics At Williamstown

Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, minister of the Newton Centre Unitarian Society and editor of the Christian Register, was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Newton Rotary Club on Monday at the Woodland Golf Club. Dr. Dieffenbach this year attended the Institute of Politics at Williamstown last month which he took for the subject of his talk. He noted the difference in this year's institute with those of other years, saying that the recent conference dealt with practical problems of the present rather than theoretical problems. He gave interesting and intimate sketches of many of the international visitors and speakers at the Institute.

He told of the need among business men for a greater knowledge of the entire world, of the need for new ideas. He believed that the great revolution for a better world is at hand now. He gave a concise picture of the growth of the Institute of Politics, the creation of Harry Garfield, president of Williams College and son of the former U. S. President, since its first functioning in 1921. In the eleven years of the Institute, Dr. Dieffenbach has been in attendance at eight and he pointed out the great interest always manifested in it. Following the war the foremost problems were those growing out of the war. He stressed the utmost catholicity of the men and women of diverse opinions and from all walks of life who attend the Institute. We have the Institute to thank for the stabilizing influence it has exerted in many ways making us debtors beyond measure. The economic changes impending in the world he stated will make us marvelously better in the future. He expressed the belief that our present travail would result in a new heaven on a new earth because out of catastrophes of the past we have not been casual wasters but have seen them through to make us masters.

The first change must be to a unified world and those who know only their own country might well be termed traitors to their country. The fall of prices, the stoppage of trade, the anxiety of creditors, unemployment are world wide. A readjustment is necessary and as yet we have not world-wide brains or hearts. We must either be persuaded or forced into it. Then we will have peace and prosperity to make a "world of charm and of joy."

While we must stand the present losses, which are in reality trivial, the comparative gains of the present period we are going through make us ready to face the "bright dawn." We shall have the better tomorrow, not for ourselves alone, but for the whole world.

Newton Schools Open With Big Enrollment

Over Four Hundred More Than Last Year—More To Attend

The public schools of Newton opened last Monday with an attendance the first day of 422 more pupils than on the opening day last year. The total number of pupils in the schools on Monday was 10,716. At the new John W. Weeks junior high school at Newton Centre the enrollment was 799. At the high school in Newtonville the enrollment was 2,159. This was a decrease of 233 from the attendance on the first day of school in 1930, but this decrease was expected as between 250 and 300 ninth grade pupils who would otherwise have come to the High School this year are enrolled in the John W. Weeks School.

The enrollment has been added to each succeeding day since Monday as children return to this city from their summer homes.

NEWTON REAL ESTATE BOARD MEETS

Plans for obtaining better and quicker results in the handling of Newton real estate were discussed at the regular weekly noon-day luncheon of the Newton Board of the Boston Real Estate Exchange held at the Vernon Court Hotel.

Suggestions for increasing the efficiency of local realtors in their efforts to better serve the owners and buyers of real estate, were advanced.

Reports of September sales from the different offices represented were most gratifying, and it was generally agreed that the time for concerted action on the part of owners, brokers, and customers had arrived.

Opportunities for the purchase of desirable homes were described as "more favorable than for many years." It was suggested that the public would do well to take advantage of present attractive prices in acquiring desirable residence properties.

Several committees were appointed to work out plans for increasing the public interest in home ownership. Reports from the chairmen of these committees are expected in the near future.

Two Killed Riding On Top Of Freight Car

Believed Hit By Mount Vernon
Street Bridge

E. C. Fletcher, 22, of Glenholm, Nova Scotia, was killed and J. R. Powers, 36, of St. John, New Brunswick, was fatally injured while riding on the top of a freight car on a train which passed through Newtonville about 2:30 Monday morning. The two had been riding on top of an automobile car, which has a height of about a foot more than the ordinary freight car. About 3 o'clock Monday morning Patrolman Harold Elliot, who resides at the corner of Washington and Parsons streets, West Newton, was awakened by groans coming from the direction of the Boston & Albany railroad tracks across Washington street. Elliot hastened to the tracks and found Powers lying on the tracks in a semi-conscious condition. Powers muttered something about a companion and then lapsed into unconsciousness. Elliot summoned the police ambulance and Powers was taken to the Newton Hospital, where it was found he had fractured ribs, a fracture of the right leg, internal injuries, cuts and bruises on the head and body. He died at 7:30 Monday night without regaining consciousness. He was identified by papers found in his possession.

At 7 o'clock Monday morning Fletcher's body was found on top of the freight car in the freight yard at Wellesley, where the car had been switched off early Monday morning. His skull has been fractured and he had received other severe injuries. A card in Fletcher's pocket identified him. It is supposed that the men were hit by the Mount Vernon Street bridge.

POLICE NEWS

Several persons arrested as a result of a series of raids conducted by the Newton police on Saturday night, September 5, appeared in the Newton court this week. On Wednesday those who were tried before Judge Bacon included Giuseppe Cappello, 51 Oak avenue, West Newton; Giuseppe Tedeschi, 88 West street, Nantum; John T. Lavelle, 277 Washington street, Newton.

Cappello offered a unique defence. His attorney told Judge Bacon that the defendant is the father of 10 children and the beer found by the police when they raided his home that night had been made to celebrate the arrival of the youngest child. To discredit the testimony of John Rogers, the agent used by the police to obtain evidence at Cappello's and other places raided on the night of September 5, the latter had witnesses testify that he was not at Oak avenue, but away from home when Rogers claimed to have purchased a half-pint of booze from the defendant for 50 cents. Cappello's defence did not impress Judge Bacon, who imposed a suspended sentence of 3 months in jail on the Oak avenue man for keeping liquor for sale, and fined him $50 for making the sale; also $10 to pay for expenses of obtaining evidence.

Tedeschi's attorney told the judge that his client is 70 years old, and in destitute circumstances. The defendant was fined $50 for making an illegal sale and given a suspended jail sentence of three months for keeping liquor for sale. Lavelle was fined $50 for the alleged illegal sale and he appealed. When the police raided 277 Washington street they found no liquor.

Frank Wellford of 30 Beach street, Nantum, whose home was also raided on the night of September 5, received a severe penalty. Two old suspended sentences of one year and six months respectively, imposed on him when he was found guilty of previous violations of the liquor laws, were put into effect by Judge Bacon. Rogers, the "evidence collector" of the police, testified that when he accompanied two other men to Wellford's home the defendant asked the others if they knew Rogers, and when a negative reply was given, Wellford told the pair that they should not have brought the stranger as he might be a "spotter." Nevertheless, Wellford did not allow his suspicions to deter him from selling two drinks to Rogers, and his lack of caution resulted in a raid and 18 months ahead of him in the hoose-gow. Judge Bacon, in addition to sending Wellford to jail on the old charges, imposed a suspended sentence of 3 months on the new charges.

Another illicit dealer in liquor who was sent to jail is Mrs. Filomena diGiamdomenico of 114 Carlisle street, Newton Centre. Her house was also raided on the night of September 5 following an alleged illegal sale by her. A few months ago Mrs. diGiamdomenico's house was raided and the police found more than liquor there. Hidden in a pillow they found $7000 in cold cash. And what made the finding of this fortune more interesting was the fact that Mrs. diGiamdomenico had been drawing money from the Welfare Department of the City of Newton on the claim that she was destitute. At that time she was made to refund the several hundreds of dollars she had wheedled from the city and she was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. When she again appeared before Judge Bacon yesterday morning the suspended sentence was put into effect and she was sent to Cambridge. On her conviction on the recent charges of selling and keeping liquor, the judge fined her $100 and gave her a suspended sentence of three months in jail. She appealed these penalties.

MERCHANTS TO DISPLAY FLAGS

Out of courtesy to the American Legion Band which begins its trip to the Detroit Convention Saturday afternoon with a parade to the Newtonville R. R. station, starting at Newton Corner, the merchants of that section requested by the Newton Business Associates to display their flags tomorrow.

Newton Post A.L. To Leave For Detroit

One Hundred To Attend Annual Convention

The delegation from Newton Post No. 48, American Legion, bound for the National Convention in Detroit, leaves Newtonville on Saturday of this week by special train, in charge of Fred Hughes. Several members of Newton Post have already left by auto and are now enroute for Detroit, but the main body and over forty pieces of the Band will leave on Saturday. The band will be in charge of Vice Commander Harold D. Ames, who has made all arrangements for the trip.

The band and the delegation will have a short parade before entraining; the parade will start at Newton Corner and will proceed on Washington street to the Newtonville Railroad Station. The Newton Corner Businessmen's Association has co-operated with the Newton Post Band during the past year and the band has assisted in their Booster's Week, and as a tribute to the business men of Newton Corner it was voted to have the parade start from Newton.

At the Newtonville station, Mayor Weeks will bid "bon voyage" to the delegates, and he will hand to Commander Francis J. Barry a letter of introduction to Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, also the greetings from the City of Newton to the City of Detroit. At Detroit it is planned for the Newton Delegation and its Band to pay a visit to the Mayor of Detroit, where Commander Barry and Vice Commander Ames will bring Mayor Weeks' greetings.

The "big parade" will be held on Tuesday, September 22, 1931, in Detroit, and Newton Post expects to have nearly one hundred members in line.

The special train will leave Newtonville on Saturday at 7:30 P.M., and will proceed direct to Niagara Falls, where the entire party will stay over Sunday, making a side trip into Canada, and will arrive in Detroit early Monday morning. The party will arrive back in Newtonville on Friday morning, Sept. 25th.

NEWTONVILLE BOY DISAPPEARS

The Newton police were asked on Monday to assist in locating David Larabee, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Larabee of 40 Austin street, Newtonville. The boy was to have started on his third year at Newton High School on Monday, but the preceding night he departed from his home and his parents later discovered that he had taken with him a pair of blankets and some food. It is supposed that dislike on the boy's part to return to school caused his departure.

COMPLAIN ABOUT WATER

Residents of Tolman street, West Newton, which runs from Adams avenue to the Waltham line have entered complaints about the condition of the water supplied to the dozen homes on the street. The water has a disagreeable taste and odor and is not fit for drinking purposes. The pipe supplying the street comes to a dead end and has been flushed by Water Department employees in an effort to improve conditions, but the water did not lose its bad qualities. People on the street demand that the pipe be flushed frequently.

Six More Cases Of Infantile Paralysis

Only One Severe Case Reported
—Others Light

Six more cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the Newton Board of Health the past week. Five of these cases are light and one is severe. All of these cases developed before the children entered school and no cases have been reported among children who have been attending the Newton schools. The 7 year old girl who has been in a critical condition with the disease is supposed to have caught it in New Jersey where she had been on a visit. Two of the children having the disease are two year old girls residing on Auburndale avenue, West Newton; another is a 15 year old boy residing on Commonwealth avenue near Centre street and the other two cases which are reported as being very light are those of a 10 year old boy whose home is on Boylston street near Thompsonville and a 6 year old girl whose home is on Commonwealth avenue near Centre street. Five of the cases are in hospitals and the sixth is being treated at his home on Commonwealth avenue with a trained nurse in attendance.

"BOOSTER WEEK" ATTRACTS MANY

"Booster Week" at Newton Corner, which was climaxed on Wednesday and Thursday evenings with music for band concerts and block dancing by the band of the Newton Post of the American Legion, attracted hundreds of people to that section of Newton. While many merchants report increased sales and a more than ordinary activity in general the two evenings are regarded as highly successful.

The concerts took place on Hall street with several hundreds of shoppers present, while others seized the opportunity to patronize many of the stores in other parts of Nonantum Square. On Wednesday evening, while many were present the amount of trading was but slightly greater than on an average Saturday evening. Thursday evening not only was the crowd greater but there was a gratifying increase in the amount of buying.

Inasmuch as "Booster Week" does not end until tomorrow night patrons of Newton Corner stores will still have an opportunity to avail themselves of many of the special offers and merchandise sales offered by the stores.

NONANTUM MAN TO BE ORDAINED PRIEST

James A. Murnaghan of 28 Cook street, Nonantum, son of the late Hugh Murnaghan and Margaret McMullen Murnaghan will be ordained tomorrow at Norwalk, Connecticut by Bishop Nihan of Hartford. The young man is a graduate of Our Lady's High School at Newton and subsequently entered the Holy Ghost Apostolic Order, studying at the college of this religious society at Cornwall Heights, Pennsylvania and at the seminary in Norwalk. He has two sisters, one of whom is Sister Annarcha of the Order of the Blessed Sacrament at Cornwall Heights, Pennsylvania, and the other, Mrs. Lionel Sadler of Cook street, Nonantum. He also has two brothers, Hugh Murnaghan of Watertown and Daniel Murnaghan of Cook street, Nonantum.

The newly ordained priest will celebrate his first solemn high mass next Sunday at 10 o'clock in the Church of Our Lady, Newton. He will be assisted by Rev. Francis Driscoll of East Gloucester as deacon, and Rev. Richard McHale of Jamaica Plain as sub-deacon.

Many Hearings At Aldermanic Meeting

Few Persons Appear To Speak On Either Side

Eighteen of the twenty-one members of the Board of Aldermen attended the regular meeting at City Hall on Monday night and sweltered for a few hours while transacting city legislative affairs. The absentees were Aldermen Bowen, Chandler and Howlett.

A large number of hearings on petitions were on the docket, but with a couple of exceptions, no persons appeared to speak in favor or against these petitions. The petitions on which hearings were announced included the following:

Stiles Haines, permit to erect three-car garage at 42-44 Ripley street, Ward 6.

Beatrice D. Weeks, permit to erect five-car garage at 97 Valentine street, Ward 3.

Eleanor Stanton, permit to keep, store and use 250 gallons gasoline, in underground tank, at 256 Chestnut Hill Road, Ward 6, for private use only.

Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston and New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Mass., joint pole locations, viz:

Waban Hill road, Ward 6, approximately 60 feet east of Waban Hill road north, one pole. Harding street, Ward 3, approximately 100 feet southeast of Kensington avenue, one pole. Merrill road, Ward 6, approximately 380 feet south of Ward street, one pole.

Edison Company, pole locations, poles originally set in private ways which are now public streets:

Stonleigh road, Ward 3, northerly from Furbush avenue, two poles. Woodchester Drive, Ward 6, westerly from a point approximately 100 feet west of Algonquin road, five poles.

Edison and Telephone Companies, joint pole locations, poles originally set in private ways which are now public streets:

Ashford road, Ward 6, northerly from Ward street, three poles. Athelstane road, Ward 6, westerly from Parker street, four poles. Bow road, Ward 6, northwesterly from a point approximately 540 feet northwest of Cypress street, four poles.

Exmoor road, Ward 6, between Ward street and Stuart road, four poles. Greenlawn avenue, Ward 6, southerly from Homer street, five poles. Wessex road, Ward 6, southerly from Ward street, four poles. Woodchester drive, Ward 6, approximately 20 feet west of Algonquin road, one pole. Maple road, Ward 4, between Central street and Williston road, three poles. Riverside street, Ward 4, southeasterly from Charles street, three poles.

Edison Company, permit to construct and maintain underground conduits and manholes, viz:

Homer Street, Ward 6, southeasterly from a point approximately 50 feet southeast of Commonwealth avenue, a distance of about 540 feet. Beacon street, Ward 6, opposite Institution avenue, a distance of approximately 39 feet. Church street, Ward 1, at Maple avenue, a distance of approximately 25 feet. Lowell avenue, Ward 2, at Foster street, a distance of approximately 125 feet; Foster street, Ward 2 easterly from Lowell avenue, a distance of approximately 195 feet.

Charles W. Chapin of 33 Waban Hill road, Chestnut Hill, objected to the petition of the Edison Company for a pole location on that street. Mr. Chapin stated that already several poles are located alongside his property and he does not want a monopoly of the poles in his neighborhood.

Ernest Railsback of Foster street objected to the petition of the Edison Company to lay an underground conduit on that street because it will entail an expense of $70 to him for the connection to his house. He stated that other residents of the street had expressed opposition and he expected that they were to attend the meeting. Alderman Powers asked the representative of the Edison Company what the average cost per foot is for installing underground service to customers. He was told that the average cost is about $1 per foot. Alderman Smith replied that he believes the average cost per foot is $2 or more. He also stated that customers are required to pay in advance by the Edison Company. Alderman Gordon rejoined towns.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

Edited by WARREN K. BRIMBLECOM

SANBORN MAKES CUT IN FOOTBALL SQUAD

Head coach Ralph N. Sanborn of the Newton High School football team made a cut yesterday in his squad retaining about fifty lads who have either shown sufficient promise to warrant their retention on the varsity squad or those seniors who have not yet proven their ability. While this squad is somewhat larger than that which will ultimately make up the varsity squad the focal school restriction whereby no senior may represent the intermediate varsity team makes it either a question of asking a number of last year's athletes to turn in their suits without further trial or carrying them along for a show while.

With less than ten days left in which to prepare for the opening with a game at Arlington on Saturday, September 25th, the Newton coaches are planning to hold the first real scrimmage session of the season tomorrow a. m. While some contact work and a little light scrimmage have been held, the first real strenuous work in this direction will give a further line on the prospective material now on hand. While no practice game or scrimmage have been arranged with Wellesley or another outside school as reported it is possible that one may be arranged for the early part of next week. Coach Sanborn, however, plans at least to stage a practice game between two picked teams from his so-called varsity group. From this game it is probable that many of those in the starting line-up against Arlington will be picked. While there is almost a full team of letter-men or veterans of more or less experience from last year's varsity there are but few starting positions actually certain. The backfield seems to be the most settled of the group with Mullen at quarterback, Blackler and Duane at the halves and Huston at fullback. Yet there are a number of other promising athletes who may wrest the starting position from anyone of this quartet with the possible exception of Huston. Harry Hatchell, intermediate star back of last year, is one of the speediest of the backs under Coach Sanborn's direction and he will surely be an early replacement if not a starter. Other leading backs are Jim Cahill, Joe Pescosolido, Bob Buell, Jack Goodbar, Al DeGeorge, Bolton Wilder, Bill Wales, Paul Fitzpatrick, Vernon Downie, Dick Keil, and Goodnow. Willie Mullen, 1930 letter man, is having plenty of opposition from the Robinson brothers, Albert and Eliot, and Al Carvelli in his battle to clinch the quarterback position.

It is a practical certainty that Warren Huston will be the triple threat man on the orange and black eleven. He proved his ability to pass, kick and carry the ball last year as a sophomore and with the year of experience behind him is headed for a great season. Duane and Blackler have also improved with experience and should do their part in providing Newton with a strong offense.

Coach Sanborn has some excellent center material available to support Bob Patterson, letter man, although the loss of Tommy Lyons, who is still having trouble with a bad hand which became infected during the baseball season, is somewhat of a handicap. Opposing Patterson for the right to start the Arlington game are Horace Wood, outstanding on the intermediate varsity a year ago, Paul Andres and Bob Bankart. The latter is a son of "Reggie" Bankart of Dartmouth fame. Charles Houghton, center of the Huntington school eleven last year who transferred to Newton High, has been declared ineligible to represent the orange and black in athletics for three months under the state eligibility rules. Coach Sanborn had planned to try Houghton at tackle in view of the presence of such center material and his loss is felt, as the tackle problem is one of the most difficult of this season.

Flanking the center there is a considerable amount of promising material available for the guard positions. This group is headed by two lettermen, Frank Vassalotti and Tony DiMaio. Douglas Sloane, of track fame is staging a race with DiMaio for one of the guard berths while Vassalotti, whose play last season was the best of any Newton lineman, seems to have the other place clinched provided he keeps up his standard of play. Sloane more than makes up for his lack of weight by his speed which should serve him in good stead in carrying him through the opposing backfield to clean out for Huston and the other ball-toters as a running guard. Other leading candidates for guard positions from whom reserves will be chosen are Oscar Wikstrom, Stuart DeBard, Bill Conway, Biagio Geraci, Harris and Bonadio.

George Gullian and the Giles brothers, Bill and Jack are leading candidates for tackle berths. The former was a strong part of the 1930 line at guard but with the need for additional speed for running guards Coach Sanborn is using the cousin

Perry Elrod, all-round athlete at Newton High the past two years, will attend Wilbraham Academy this fall.

Colby Going To Yale
Warren Colby, Newton High baseball player the past two years, is attending Yale this year where he has been awarded a scholarship in addition to the Meserve Scholarship awarded him on graduation from high school. Two years from now it is possible that he will be a member of the varsity baseball team along with Allie Fletcher, sophomore star second sacker last spring.

Two On Tufts Squad
Two former Newton High athletes represent the Garden City on the Tufts varsity squad this fall. Romaine Cole, an end and senior, and Gordon Linberg, a tackle and sophomore.

PLAN PLAYGROUND FOOTBALL LEAGUE

There will be a meeting of the managers and others interested in the Newton Playgrounds Football League at the Newton Centre Playground Building Thursday evening, September 24th, at 7:30 o'clock. The league will probably be made up of eight teams this year, as several new teams have applied for admission.

This will be the second year of operation of the league, six teams making up the circuit with Fitz's Gym being crowned the champion. Last year the round robin schedule ran for two months with the majority of games on Sunday afternoons.

of the former Newton High and Brown all-American tackle at his present berth. Bill Giles played several games at tackle for the 1930 eleven but failed to make his letter because of scholastic ineligibility at the close of the season. Other candidates who are still in the running for tackle positions are Gould Decker, Donald Marr (a transfer from Waltham), Alexander Keovorkiak (brother of the Brown Iron Man), Wilfred Howley, Kimball, Muther, and Latimer. Tom Kinraide, an outstanding tackle on the 1930 intermediate team, has been lost to the squad.

The end group is headed by Fred Perkins of the 1930 varsity but with sterling opposition from Tom Malloy, Francis Tuschler, Minot Guild and Herbert Levenson there should be quite a race for starting honors during the next week of practice. Other candidates who are striving for the opportunity are Jack Hendrick, Francesco Gorgone, Roger Gilmore, and Holmes. Natole Sostilio who was a promising end last year until a knee injury put him out for the season did not report as he will confine his athletic activities to hockey this winter.

SPORT NOTES

On Northeastern Squads
Newton is well represented in fall athletics at Northeastern University. Two members of the sophomore class are on the soccer squad and a third is on the cross country squad. Herbert Gallagher of Newton, varsity baseball pitcher last spring as a freshman, and Robert Claffee of Newton Centre, are the soccer enthusiasts, while Gordon Lawrence of Auburndale is the hill and dale runner.

Newton Centre Wins
At the Newton Centre playground courts last Saturday the Newton Centre Tennis Association defeated the West Roxbury Tennis Club five matches to one. The feature match was an extra set battle where Charles Greene and Frank Killion of the local team staged a marvelous comeback to win their doubles match from Cochrane and Kenney, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3. Kenney of the visitors won his singles match from Killion to save a shutout. The summary: Donald P. Holt (N) defeated Dunley (R) 6-2, 6-2. Joseph Manning (N) defeated Emerson (R) 6-1, 6-2. C. Greene (N) defeated B. Clarke (R) 6-1, 6-2. Kenney (R) defeated F. Killion (N) 6-1, 6-4 at singles. Manning and Ober (N) defeated Emerson and Clark (R) 6-4, 6-3 and Killion and Greene (N) defeated Cochrane and Kenney (R) 4-6, 7-5, 6-3 at doubles.

Pescosolido on Team C
The Harvard varsity football squad began practice this week with three former Newton High athletes on the squad. Carl Pescosolido, star back on last year's freshman eleven, has been used at fullback and quarterback on Team C. Sutcliffe, also a sophomore, is with the end squad, and Harold Ham, a junior, is with the backs.

Harrington at Centre
Dan Harrington, former Newton High star lineman, now a junior at Boston University, one of several veterans whom Coach Mahaney is depending upon this coming season as a mainstay of the Terriers. Last year the Newtonville youth started every game on the schedule at guard. It is possible that the B. U. coaches may shift Harrington to centre this season. Arthur Chamberlain, another former Newton high athlete, is also one of the pivot men on the B. U. varsity squad.

Green At Exeter
Milton Green, star of the Newton High track team last year, is attending Exeter Academy this year in preparation for entrance to Harvard. He should be a valuable addition to the Exeter track team with his all-around ability as a hurdler, sprinter and high and broad jumper.

Elrod At Wilbraham
Perry Elrod, all-round athlete at Newton High the past two years, will attend Wilbraham Academy this fall.

Colby Going To Yale
Warren Colby, Newton High baseball player the past two years, is attending Yale this year where he has been awarded a scholarship in addition to the Meserve Scholarship awarded him on graduation from high school. Two years from now it is possible that he will be a member of the varsity baseball team along with Allie Fletcher, sophomore star second sacker last spring.

POLICE NEWS

A short-wave radio receiving set has been installed at Newton Police Headquarters and is tuned in on the broadcasts sent out from the barracks of the State Police at Framingham. By means of this set the Newton police are kept in touch with information concerning the commission of crimes and the theft of automobiles. It acts as an effective supplement to the teletype machine which connects Newton Police Headquarters with nearby police departments. On Wednesday Mayor Weeks and Chief Hughes were given a demonstration of the effectiveness of equipping police automobiles with short-wave radio sets similar to that at headquarters. Police cars in other cities have been so equipped and the results have been very satisfactory. It is probable that some of the police cars in this city may be equipped with such sets.

In the Newton court yesterday Mrs. Elizabeth Vespa of Maplewood avenue, Newton Centre, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail when found guilty of having made an illegal sale of liquor. She was also ordered to pay $20 for the expenses incurred in obtaining her arrest.

In the Newton court yesterday Joseph Shubow of 77 Beaumont avenue, Newtonville was fined $10 for speeding. Richard Artesani of Allston was fined $5 for obstructing a private driveway by parking his car too near it.

Frank Castagnino of River street, West Newton, who runs a barber shop on Washington street, West Newton, was in the Newton court on Tuesday charged with making an illegal sale of liquor and with keeping liquor for sale. Following the sale of liquor to a police "agent" on Saturday night, September 5, Castagnino's place was raided by Sergt. Bannon and Patrolman Walker and three halfpints of alcohol were seized. The presence of this liquor in the barber shop was explained by Castagnino's attorney in the following manner: The defendant's wife, Esther Castagnino, had planted the liquor in the shop to prevent her husband from departing for New York City. The attorney stated that Mrs. Castagnino was ready to testify to the alleged story, but she was not called to the witness stand.

Judge Bacon fined Castagnino $50 for making the sale and also gave him a suspended jail sentence of 3 months. He gave the defendant a six months' suspended sentence on the charge of keeping liquor for sale. Last January Castagnino was found guilty of violating the liquor laws and was then given a six months' suspended jail sentence. Judge Bacon was inclined to put the old sentence into effect, but Inspector Shaughnessy, who prosecuted the case, recommended that the court refrain from sending Castagnino to imprisonment.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coleman of 1229 Washington street, West Newton, again appeared in the Newton court on Monday to complain against a dog. This time the dog was owned by Tomasso Scandale of Davis court, at the rear of the Coleman residence. The complainants asserted that they have been annoyed by the incessant barking of this dog. Scandale told Judge Bacon that his dog had barked because the animal had been kept tied in conformity with the restraining order on dogs. A witness for Scandale told the judge that an automobile owned by the Colemans makes more noise than the dog. The judge ordered the case continued until September 21 and instructed Scandale to dispose of the dog in the meantime.

Complaints have been made that persons in this city have been victimized by a suave individual who imposes on owners of houses which are to let. This man would approach the owner of a house which bore a "To Let" sign and inspect the property. He claimed to be a detective inspecting the house for a prospective tenant, and stationed at Boston, and agreed to rent the house. He then tendered a check for $45, or some like amount, and stated that he would make a deposit to secure the rental, but could only pay $25 down and would take back the difference in cash from his prospective landlord. It is reported that at least a couple of persons were duped by this thief.

Harry Thornton of 491 Huntington avenue, Boston, was arrested early Sunday morning by Patrolmen Haloran and Marden at Newton Corner, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and driving without a license in possession. His case will be tried September 21.

In the death of Mr. Joseph B. Jamieson the city loses one of its most public spirited citizens. Mr. Jamieson was active in many social organizations and was always ready to aid and assist in all good works. He was particularly interested in the work of the American Red Cross and served for years on its most important committees. He will be lovingly remembered by a wide circle of friends.

Mahatma Gandhi's appeal to the Conscience of the World has set to thinking many so-called Christians who have been under the impression that Christianity is the sole repository of the religion of the world. We trust that Gandhi's visit and opinions will broaden the outlook of millions of Christians.

The action of the Republican members of the Governor's Council in childishly walking out of a recent Council meeting was a grave political blunder and one which will give the Republican party considerable worry in the coming campaign.

ALDERMEN MEET

marked that the Edison Company is only asking for permits to install underground conduits to comply with the agreement with the City of Newton. The city desires to have overhead wires and poles removed eventually, and the Edison Company agreed to install a certain amount of underground service each year. A couple of months before the work starts, the company notifies the customers to be affected and tells them what the cost will be. The company pays for the work to each property line, and the customers pay for the cost of their set-back. Ordinarily, customers are glad to obtain the change, as it means the removal of unsightly poles.

Eight jurors were drawn to serve at October sessions of the Superior Court in Cambridge next month. The names drawn were those of Harrison Hyslop, 643 Watertown street; Frederick Trowbridge, 14 Hollis street; Verne Philbrook, 1418 Commonwealth avenue; Metz Hayes, 41 Oakcliff road; Charles H. Cobb, 74 Kenwood avenue; Herbert Hunter, 175 Walnut street; George B. Cameron, 393 Newtonville avenue; Phillips Byfield, 367 Newtonville avenue.

Alderman Hawkins, reporting for the Licenses Committee, recommended the granting of the following petitions—New England Telephone Company, underground conduit on Hobart road.

John B. Samuda, permit to install an underground tank with pump, at 1 Jackson street, Ward 6, and to keep, store and sell gasoline in connection therewith, maximum quantity to be stored at one time, 1,000 gals. Pump to be located inside of building.

Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston and New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Mass., joint relocations existing poles: Beacon street, near Wilde road, set one pole and remove one pole; Jerome avenue, between Russell road and Cherry street, set seven poles and remove seven poles.

Edison Co., pole relocation: Beach street, triangle at Wilde road, set one pole; Beacon street, near triangle at Wilde road, remove one pole.

Patrick F. Sweeney, two second-class taxis at 368 Centre street, Ward 7.

Salvatore Dinnette, four bowling alleys at 1156 Walnut street, Ward 5. Auctioneer licenses (new): John W. Kerivan, 418 Homer street, Ward 6; Arnold B. Rich, 193 Gibbs street, Ward Jolly's, by Charles Keith, Common Victualler license at 471 Woodward street, Ward 5.

Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston and New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Mass., joint relocation existing pole, Trowbridge avenue, approximately 150 feet southwest of Gay street, set one pole and remove one pole.

Edison Company, relocation existing pole, Cotton street, at Loring road, set one pole and remove one pole. Telephone Company, relocations existing pole, Kewadin road, westerly from Tamworth road, set two poles and remove two poles.

Telephone Company, removal of poles, Homer street, between Lake View avenue and Walnut street, eight poles.

These recommendations of the committee were accepted by the Board. The committee reported adversely on the petition of the F. W. Woolworth Company for a common victualler license at 320 Centre street, Newton. This was the third time the 5 & 10 cent store had been denied a restaurant license. Chairman Hawkins of the Licenses Committee explained that it is the contention of the committee that such a license should not be granted to a store whose principal business is not the serving of food, and that Liggett Drug Company had been refused a similar permit on this ground. The committee also turned down the petition of John Mazazu to deal in second-hand automobiles at Bronze Bust of John Wingate Weeks Presented to the John Wingate Weeks Junior High School in Newton by Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton and His Sisters. It is the Work of Frederick W. Allen and Faces The Main Entrance of the School, Between the Ascending Stairways.

The Inscription Reads: "1860 John Wingate Weeks 1926. School Teacher. Alderman. Naval Officer. Mayor of Newton. Surveyor. Congressman. Banker. U. S. Senator. Secretary of War. What he did other boys may do. Presented by his children September 1931."

184 California street, Nonantum. Chief of Police Hughes would not "O. K." Mazazu's petition. The committee had turned down the petition of John Lawlor for a license to deal in second hand furniture at 10 Pearl court, Newton, but this matter was referred back to the committee.

Hearings were assigned at the next meeting of the Aldermen on October 5 on the following petitions:

Jenney Mfg. Co., permits to increase gasoline storage by 1,000 gallons, at each of the following stations, to keep, store and sell the same: Cor. Walnut and Beacon streets, Ward 6, making total capacity 7,000 gallons; 2322 and Beacon streets, Ward 6, making total capacity 5,000 gallons; Cor. Boylston and Woodward streets, Ward 5 making total capacity 5,000 gallons. Frank I. Fisher, permit to erect and maintain a gasoline station at 296 California street, Ward 1, and to install three 1,000 gallon tanks and three pumps; 200 gallons of oils.

Metropolitan Ice Company (Crystal Lake Ice Co. Division) permit to keep, store and sell gasoline on the premises at 62 Norwood avenue, Ward 6. Appropriations made by the Aldermen included the following: Pensions for retired city employees—Christopher Farrell, $327.08; James Keating, $291.73; James Denning, $254.01; Police Department for temporary janitor service, $40; Public Buildings Department for inspection of elevators, $50; sewer on Bridge street, $985. Appropriations for street drains were—Bridge street, $2020; Pearl street, $1239; King street, $1242; Kilburn road, $2691; Rangeley road, $1085; Prince street, $800. Appropriations for laying out and improving streets included Bridges avenue, $6691; Bertrand road, $2180; Day street, $4787; Holman road, $4870; Leslie road, $6004; Davis avenue, $6220; Arapahoe road, $3336; Ellsworth road, $3932. These streets will be surfaced with a top of 1½ inch of crushed stone premixed with bituminous material, this method being far superior to the type of construction heretofore used on streets in this city.

The cost of the work to abutments on these streets is not to exceed $4.50 per running foot. Llewellyn road at West Newton has been recently constructed with such a surface. The work on all these streets is to be done by employees of the Newton Street Department instead of by contractors. For water mains on various streets $1650 was appropriated. Another appropriation was for $10,000. This sum will pay for four bas-reliefs which will be placed in the new War Memorial building. These bas-reliefs will be sculptured by Theodore Pitman, a Cambridge sculptor and will depict a scene each from the Revolutionary, Civil, Spanish and World Wars. The money for this appropriation will be taken from the surplus of the Civilian Poll Tax Fund refunded to the city by the Commonwealth.

ETCHING EXHIBITION

One of the leading attractions at Newton Corner during Booster Week has been the exhibitions of etchings at the Newton Glass Company. These etchings which are by some of the famous etchers such as Eberhardt, Haumont, Newman, Robbe, Marchetti and others, drew the admiration and interest of those who witnessed the window displays which were put on at three and eight o'clock. Mr. Fredrick, proprietor of the Newton Glass Co., has announced that because of this great interest arrangements have been made to continue the exhibition all next week.

PIANO CLASSES FOR CHILDREN COMMENCING SEPT. 28

EVERY CHILD, between six and fourteen, will want PIANO LESSONS THE NEW WAY,—and PARENTS will be delighted with its Musical and Cultural advantages.

NO ANNOYING HOME PRACTICE,—just five 30 minute or three 50 minute lessons each week devoted to musical games and fascinating pieces.

Being wholly under the direction of H. S. Wilder, one of the foremost Piano Class authorities of the country, results will inevitably be rapid and permanent.

By the special methods and equipment used every pupil does the entire work during lesson periods,—not a moment is lost.

Carelessness and mistakes are avoided and correct habits formed. The THOUGHT BEFORE ACTION principle, used throughout the lessons, eliminates "guessing" and substitutes the habit of DOING THINGS RIGHT THE FIRST TIME.

The charge will be Six Dollars a month, payable in advance,—five times as much time under expert supervision for less than one-half the cost for private lessons.

No pupil will be registered for less than three months.

The lessons will be given at Mr. Wilder's residence, 361 Austin St., West Newton. (Three minutes from Bus Lines and Railroad Station. Opposite the Pierce School.)

For further information or registration blanks write or phone H. S. Wilder, 361 Austin St., West Newton. Phone W. N. 0273-M.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. Bentley

If a youngster grumbles at going back to school, everybody says, "Well, you can hardly blame him," but if a teacher should fail to wear a perpetual smile on opening day they'd call her an awful grinch.

The "Nineties" and Now

Will someone kindly tell me why it is that the "Gay Nineties" are the source of so much humor in all sorts of publications these days. Just why that decade of the 19th century should be seized upon by writers and artists I have not yet been able to determine. It may be that compared with today the former's fashions and customs seem completely outmoded. There may be something exorcisingly funny in the women's dresses and millinery of the 90's but I think it is necessary that one possess a distinctly modern point of view in order to extract all the mirth.

I had read of dress designers who announced a return to the style designs of between 30 and 40 years ago. Prior to that time a certain stage production like "The Florodora Girl" had featured the costumes of the "Gay Nineties". Then I began to see drawings in magazine and humorous weeklies in which that period was lampooned and ridiculed, not always politely.

Only the other day I found on the shelves of the Newton Free Library an anthology of verse of the 90's. As yet they haven't taken up the cookbooks of those days but that will come eventually no doubt. If there is anything outlandish in the things people did between 1890 and 1900 it is not likely to be overlooked in the general combing of things now underway. We are likely to be treated to a revival of everything, except possibly the 1890 standards of family life and conduct in public. They may not appeal to the present group bound to enjoy the "new freedom".

Although I was not at that time interested in sociological problems or the psychology of dress, habit of thought and those things I do look back at the "gay nineties" as a time when Newton was a pretty interesting place. A fledgling, you say, would be expected to have an assortment only of happy memories. Maybe so, but a cracked face kid of the "Gay Nineties" knew at least part of that which was going on about him. Far be it from me to stir up any discord between the present and the past generation, but there are funny things going on today among the younger crowd even if they can't see it themselves.

Underground News

If you really want to see how thoroughly road construction can be made you should take a look at the underpass now in the process of building at the Cambridge end of Harvard bridge. You may recall that the Metropolitan District Commission has plans for a lot of improvement of the vicinity of the Charles River Basin. Well, an underpass which will take Memorial Drive beneath Massachusetts Avenue and thus do away with traffic congestion at that point is one of the big features.

Tangled conditions exist in every community as far as the movement of automobiles is concerned, but there are, it seems, more bumps, collisions, etc., at Memorial Drive and Mass. Avenue than in many places better known and more frequently used. The scheme to make Memorial Drive take a dip under the avenue at Harvard bridge is one of those plain indications that in time certain needed things are sometimes finally done. There appears to be an idea there is no rush, but eventually you may expect better travel conditions.

It was interesting to watch, as I did recently the excavating and the placing therein of deep beds of cement for a four-car road. Such solid building makes you think that this road should last for centuries. Whether it does or not is of no particular consequence compared with the joy of riding along the banks of Charles River from the Longfellow bridge, West Boston, to almost the Mt. Auburn section of Cambridge.

And another thing you don't hear much about and of which you get only an occasional surface glimpse is the extension of the Boylston street subway. It will let both Newton and Watertown and Lake street cars and also Beacon street cars pass under Governor square. The Beacon street cars will go beneath the Boston & Albany tracks and come out at a point beyond Audubon Circle. Our Newton line will come up on Commonwealth Avenue almost opposite Temple Israel.

All this latter undertaking, I was informed the other day, is going right ahead. Although it is not expected to be finished until July, 1933, it is said to be three months ahead of schedule. Takes a long time to get started but after that—well, you'll be seeing great things.

More Worry for Taxpayers

When I heard that the estimated cost of an extra session of the Legislature, such as Governor Ely has called for consideration of amendments to the compulsory automobile liability insurance law, was in the neighborhood of $175,000, I wondered where the money went. A little research, which sounds imposing but really isn't revealed to me that no such sum need be expended.

It appears that the $175,000 estimate is based on the action of the 1920 special session which was called for appropriating necessary funds for printing the General Laws and other matters. All of these appropriations might have gone over to the 1921 regular session which proves that while the appropriations were immediate to the 1920 special session they were not a part of its actual running expenses.

As far as that goes everybody, including 280 Senators and Representatives, the clerks and their assistants, the messengers, pages and others are expected to serve at a special session without compensation. The Legislature may and usually does vote for itself and its clerks, messengers, pages and others additional compensation and that, of course, amounts to many thousands of dollars.

In 1920 at the special session it was voted that each Senator and Representative should receive $200, that clerks, pages and messengers and members of the Sergeant-at-Arms force should be awarded extra compensation. That amounted to about $70,000. The other money appropriated included $19,000 for printing reports of joint special recess commissions, $75,000 for indexes, tables, citations and printing of 6000 sets of the General Laws, $5000 for an investigation by the State Department of Health relating to the prevention and control of the bubonic plague and $3,000 for clerical and other assistance to the rules committees of the two branches.

As taxpayers we ought not to worry about the expense unless the Senators and Representatives seek to vote themselves additional compensation. A few thousand dollars will cover everything unless there is this extra payroll established for members, clerks, messengers and pages. It may be that a majority of the members of our Legislature will feel that the old custom of voting themselves additional pay should be continued at the coming special session. If they do they may expect to hear some criticism.

Something Worth Reading

"The Call of Maine" is the title of a most interesting article prepared by Mr. John R. Prescott of Newtonville for publication by the New England Association of America and already printed, with permission of the Association, in the Camden Herald and other Maine newspapers. If I were in a position of authority in our neighboring commonwealth I should insist that it be made a State document.

One is tempted, upon one's return from an enjoyable Summer vacation, to become so enraptured over one's experience until attempting to write of it ends in a delirious and hopeless search for superlatives. You will find nothing of the kind in what Mr. Prescott has written. All that you may have felt as a happy sojourner in Maine is set forth by him in simple, direct style. That very fact, of course, makes it all the more convincing. When one "raves" over a subject the words somehow lose their force. Mr. Prescott makes no such error. He gives you in a facile and entertaining style an appreciation of that country and the charms it holds for all visitors.

It has been my privilege to have spent vacations in Maine and each time my appreciation of its attractions has been greater. Many readers of this column, I am sure, have returned with similar feelings. All who read Mr. Prescott's article will be, as I am, grateful to him for having presented so skillfully much that we have wanted to express.

NEWTON WAR MOTHERS

Mrs. Corabelle G. Francis of 49 Pembroke street, Newton, closed her cottage, "Rockledge", at Lake Winnebago last week and left Saturday on the Massachusetts special train, to attend the G. A. R. Encampment at Des Moines, Iowa, as a delegate to the Convention of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War from Newton Tent Number 2. Mrs. Francis will go from Des Moines to Chicago, and visit with her brother's family until Sept. 22nd, when she will join the delegates from the Eastern states on their special train going to Long Beach, California, to attend the biennial American Legion War Mothers, this being the first organization formed during the world war for service. It was born at Indianapolis, Indiana, in April, 1917. A charter was granted by a special act of Congress in 1925. Mrs. Francis is president of the Massachusetts state chapter, and has been appointed a member of the By-Laws and Resolutions Committee by the National President, Mrs. Virgil McClure, of Lexington, Kentucky. Any mother of the blood, whose son or daughter served in the world war is eligible for membership—a gold star mother, whose son or daughter made the supreme sacrifice; a silver star mother, whose son or daughter was wounded in service; a blue star mother whose son or daughter returned unharmed; in Massachusetts 146,782 entered the service and 2025 did not return.

The American War Mothers initiated the bill which secured the pilgrimage to the mothers to visit the graves of their dead. There is a constant service for the veterans and their families. There are chapters in almost every state in the union. The Boston chapter meets the fourth Tuesday of each month in Faneuil Hall, Boston, and mothers from city or suburbs are earnestly invited to enroll at any meeting. During the summer a delightful day was spent at the Art Museum, and in August the meeting was an all-day affair at Norumbega Park. On November 7th a Parcel Post Bazaar is to be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, to enable the mothers to carry on their welfare work.

GIRL SCOUTS

There has been an increasing demand for "Brownie Packs" in Newton during the past two years and four of the villages have been fortunate in securing leaders for this very fascinating part of the Girl Scout program.

These groups of little girls are in Waban, Newtonville, Nonantum and Newton. Other villages are hoping to have packs this year.

A training course for Brownie Leaders will be held at Cedar Hill, Waltham on Friday and Saturday of this week and those who are able to attend the course will find the leadership of Miss Williamson most inspiring.

Before joining the Girl Scouts in 1922 as local director in Philadelphia, Miss Williamson had been in charge of club work in the Philadelphia public library, where she also gave courses in story-telling to librarians. The "Brownie" program of the Girl Scouts, Miss Williamson found, supplemented, where it did not supply, this clubwork.

The need for the "Brownie" program became obvious to Miss Williamson only after she had joined the Girl Scouts. Then she found that it made for better scouting, particularly among the underprivileged and alien children. They obviously required some preparation, if they were to live up to the standards set by the Girl Scouts. This junior program provided it.

Miss Williamson's keen interest in this program was increased after she visited "Brownie" packs abroad a few years ago. At that time she gave some courses in leadership in Dublin. In 1930 she returned to Europe and visited packs in England, France and Belgium.

The development of the "Brownie" program, of which she has had full direction since September 1930, now occupies all of Miss Williamson's time. Late last fall she gave a two weeks' training course for "Brownie" leaders at the famous Mid-Ocean Golf Club, Bermuda.

MRS. LIGGETT'S WILL

The will of the late Mrs. Musa Bence Liggett, wife of Louis K. Liggett, of Chestnut Hill, national Republican committeeman from Massachusetts, who died Sept. 7, was filed today in the Middlesex Probate Court. There was no bond with the document, consequently the exact amount of her estate is not known. There were no public bequests.

To her three children, Mrs. Janice L. Baldwin, Mrs. Musa L. Scribner and Lehigh Bence Liggett, and her husband she left her personal property, including paintings, china and other tangible goods, to be divided equally among them. To each of the three children she bequeathed $10,000 and to a number of relatives she disposed of a total of $24,000. A trust fund of $10,000 is left to each of five grandchildren, and to her mother, Mrs. Lavinia Goodman Bence, she left $5,000 in trust.

Three faithful employees, Gladys G. Trodella, Lillian Campbell and George W. Burke, are to receive $2000, $500 and $1000 respectively. All other employees are to receive $50 for every year they have been in her service. The residue of the estate is to be divided equally among her three children and her husband.

Her son and her son-in-law, Clarke T. Baldwin were named as executors, and the former and the Shawmut National Bank as trustees. The document was drawn August 13, 1930.

TELLS ARCANUM MEMBERS ABOUT TREES

George B. Rogers, superintendent of the Forestry Division of the Newton Street Department, gave a very interesting talk on Monday night before members of the Royal Arcanum at their council room on Walnut street, Newtonville. He told of the growth and care of trees. Mr. Rogers spoke at length on the various moths and insects which destroy trees and ruin foliage. He explained how trees should be planted and cared for, referring particularly to maple trees which are so ornamental and useful as shade trees because of their thicker foliage. He also described the other types of trees which beautify the streets and parks in this city.

Possessing the basic goodness of sound design and fine manufacture

To achieve perfect fly-wheel balance, Chevrolet utilizes a special micrometer to hold every inch of the fly-wheel to uniform thickness.

Chevrolet connecting rods are matched in sets of six to within one-quarter ounce, and are individually fitted by hand to the crankshaft. Bearings are of Babbitt metal cast into the rods under heavy air pressure and at 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

Chevrolet pistons are weighed individually, matched in sets of six to within one-half ounce, and fitted by hand to three one-thousandths of an inch clearance. Piston pins are individually tested for size on special micrometer gauges.

Countless miles of service, in the hands of several million owners, have established this fact about the Chevrolet Six: You can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished product—each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. No manufacturer in the motor car industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet.

Just as every part of the car is soundly built, every feature is soundly designed. In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And this is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

Important, too, is the fact that Chevrolet mounts the six-cylinder motor rigidly on the frame at three different points. This construction stays fixed and stable throughout the life of the car, and prevents the loosening of connections and other vital parts. Millions of miles of driving have proved the worth of this standard practice.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can invest in a Chevrolet Six with full confidence of getting a genuinely good automobile! Thousands of miles from the day of purchase, you'll be glad you chose a Chevrolet Six.

Arthur Kendrick of 45 Hunnewell avenue died suddenly early Wednesday morning, September 23. He was born in Nashua, New Hampshire, March 30, 1865, the son of Benjamin Kendrick and Clara Dodge Kendrick. He graduated from the Nashua schools and from Amherst in 1887. He took graduate work at Harvard and received the degree of A.M. After leaving college he taught physics at Leicester Academy and Worcester Tech and then became associate professor of physics at Rose Polytechnic Institute, Terre Haute, Indiana. In 1901 he entered the manufacturing business, organizing the International Instrument Company.

He was a member of the Newton Board of Aldermen in 1916-17-18 and 19 and for the past several years he had served as a member of the Newton Board of Health. During the World War he served as a consultant on the Mechanical Staff of the Chemical and Gas Warfare Service. He had served as a director of the Newton Welfare Bureau and the Newton Y. M. C. A. and was a deacon of Eliot Congregational Church, Newton.

He is survived by his widow, who was Mary Chaffin Childs of Newton, two children, Priscilla and Anne Kendrick, and a sister, Professor Emerita Eliza Kendrick of Wellesley College, who is now in Europe.

His funeral service will be held this afternoon at 2:30 at Eliot Church, Newton. Rev. Ray Eusden will officiate. Burial will be in Newton Cemetery.

Alleged Torturers In Superior Court

Two Of Five Are Convicted In Scott Case

The five men who went to the home of Warren Scott, Commonwealth avenue, West Newton on the night of August 14 for the purpose of terrorizing that individual so that he would inform them where he had supposedly concealed money, were tried in the Middlesex Superior Court at Cambridge last Friday. Two of the five, Ralph and Arnold Sullivan of Melrose, brothers, each was sentenced to serve 5 months in jail for carrying weapons. The other three, Henry Ruest, Harold Lord and George Batchelder, whose names are in Medford and Beverly, were placed on probation. The five men are roofers and had worked on houses in Stoneham which Scott had built and were not paid for their labor. Scott subsequently went into bankruptcy and the men, thinking he had money concealed, went to his Commonwealth avenue address and waylaid him. But their plot failed when they were scared away by a large dog owned by Scott. It is alleged they were to threaten Scott with guns and intended to mildly toast his feet in the effort to make him tell where he had any cash in his house.

Captain Richard Goode of the Newton Police had Augustus Wilson, colored, of Middlesex street, Boston, in the Newton court on Tuesday and as a result Augustus was sent to the Middlesex County jail for 6 months. Goode surely proved a Nemesis to Mr. Wilson. The latter lives by his wits, occasionally at least, and quite some time ago obtained $69 from a West Newton colored lady by resorting with some confederates to the old ruse of finding a pocketbook in front of this lady's abode and agreeing to share its contents with her, providing she deposited some money as evidence of good faith. After a considerable time had elapsed, Inspector Goode fastened this piece of deception on Mr. Wilson and that gentleman was ordered to make restitution by a judge in the Newton court. Although months have passed since, Augustus did not pay back the $69 to his dupe, so Inspector Goode has had his eye peeled for the pocketbook planter. Monday the Newton sleuth located Mr. Wilson, and as a result, the good people of Middlesex County will pay for the keep of Augustus during the next 6 months.

Alfred Scheinfeld of 41 Washington street, Newton, 33 years of age, was arrested Tuesday noon by Inspector King and Special Officer Feeley of the Newton police and State Detective Shumway. He was charged with being an accessory before the fact of the burning of a building. His brother, Everett Scheinfeld, 20, who was captain of the Newton High football team presented himself at the Superior Court on the same day charged with a similar offence. Both were released in $3000 bail each for appearance before the Superior court. The young men are the sons of the late Nathan Scheinfeld who died several months ago. They are conducting the furniture manufacturing business owned by their father on Chapel street, Nonantum.

About 12:20 a. m. on the morning of Tuesday, June 26th, a resident of Hunnewell Hill discovered the Scheinfeld residence at 41 Washington street afire. An alarm was sounded and when the Newton firemen entered the house they found two fires going briskly in different parts of the building. The house and its contents were considerably damaged. The fire was reported to the State Fire Marshal's office and it has been under investigation since by the Newton police and Detective Shumway.

Struck By Hit And Run Driver On Crafts St.

Several Other Auto Accidents In Past Week

Roland Ayer, 62, of 75 Orange street, Waltham, was struck and seriously injured Monday night while waiting for a bus on Crafts street near Albenarle road, Newtonville. He had come from his place of employment, the Noble Milk Company on Farwell street and was on his way to his home. He was removed to his home and then taken to the Waltham Hospital. He received cuts on his face and head and injuries to his back and arms.

Cars driven by George Todd of Church road, Newton, and George Grant, Jr., of 24 Garden road, Newton, collided at the intersection of Centre and Church street, Newton at about 10:30 Saturday morning. Todd was driving westerly on Church street and was partly across Centre street when a roadster driven by young Grant hit the right rear wheel of the touring car driven by Todd. Both cars swerved to the southeast corner of Centre and Church streets and were badly damaged. Todd received a probable concussion of the brain and other injuries. After receiving first aid from a nearby physician he was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

Sunday night at 8:50 as Miss Julia Lemaillon of 11 Gibson road, Newtonville was crossing the corner of Washington and Thornton streets, Newton, she was hit by an automobile driven by Leo Gildea of 35 Eliot street, Watertown. She received a cut on the head, broken toes and abrasions on her legs. She was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

About 3:15 Monday morning an automobile owned by the Beacon Garage of Newton Centre and operated by David Grant of 53 Union Park street, Boston, crashed into a wire fence on Lagrange street, Oak Hill, near the West Roxbury line. About 65 feet of the fence, which is owned by the City of Newton, was knocked down. Grant received a fracture of the left arm, and his companion, Doris Mills of Lynn, received cuts on the head. The two were found lying on the street by Osborn Chamberlain of the Newton Y. M. C. A. when he drove along the street and he carried them to Newton Centre Square where the police ambulance was telephoned for and they were taken to the Newton Hospital.

Cars driven by Olivia Marquis of Westminster road, Newton, and Frederick Follis of Everett, collided Saturday evening at the corner of Glen avenue and Langley road. Both cars were damaged and Follis claimed to have received a severe shaking.

A car driven by Avery Boardman of 50 Gardner street, Newton, an employee of the Garden City Garage, hit the rear of a car driven by George Sumner of Ash street, Waltham, an employee of the Lane Newton Garage. The accident happened about 10 Tuesday morning on Centre street, near Cotton street, Newton. Sumner received injuries to his back and was taken to the office of Dr. Sawyer on Centre street and later removed to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance. The car driven by Boardman was badly damaged.

NO OVERTIME FOR CITY EMPLOYEES

As a result of action by Mayor Weeks an order has been issued by Street Commissioner Stuart forbidding employees of the Street Department from working more than 44 hours any week and receiving no extra pay for such work. If any employee works more than 44 hours in one week, he must loaf a sufficient time the following week to bring the average down to 44 hours. This action is taken so that work will be given to a greater number of men, particularly during these times when unemployment is so prevalent.

MORE INFANTILE PARALYSIS

On Monday the Newton Board of Health was notified that George Henry, 11, of 281 Homer street, Newton Centre, had developed infantile paralysis. The boy had been taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

On Tuesday a report was made to the Board of Health that Olga Tocci, 2½ years old of 26 Adams street, Newtonville had been ill with the disease.

ABOUT TOWN

By Edw. H. Powers

Complaints are being made about the traffic hazard caused by Boston Elevated cars being stopped after midnight at a position in Nonantum Square opposite 312 Centre street. The owl cars are parked close to the cross-over and obstruct the view of automobile drivers driving along Centre street. It is contended that the cars should be stopped in the wide part of the square.

How naive are the people of Wellesley. A large percentage of the residents of that town have been agitated into strongly opposing any location in that community for the new Boston and Worcester traffic artery. They want it moved north to the adjoining town of Weston. Weston might follow suit and demand it moved to a location in Lincoln and other towns might emulate Wellesley's superior attitude and the location of the "direct" automobile road between Boston and Worcester would finally reach beyond the New Hampshire border.

It is quite probable that the Department of Public Works of the Commonwealth will give little heed to the nonsensical findings of Wellesley and the traffic artery will follow the route planned—the practically straight line along the old Boston and Worcester turnpike; through Wellesley as well as through the cities and towns east and west of that place.

During the next couple of months citizens of Newton will be called upon to consider candidates for election to municipal offices in this city. If residents of Newton desire this municipality to continue as the most attractive residential section in Greater Boston, and one of the best residential communities in this country, it is absolutely necessary that they take more interest in civic affairs, more interest in local politics. The older generation of Newtonians, men who knew Newton, who actively participated in public matters, has passed away. During the past 10 years this city has grown in population very rapidly. A large percentage of the newcomers have little knowledge of the city. The growth of Newton and the adoption of the zoning ordinance some years ago have created new problems which are decided by the Mayor and Aldermen of Newton. Unless the proper men are elected to these offices, undesirable consequences will follow.

Newton is no longer a semi-rural community with a comparatively small population. It is now a large city. Opportunities for "chiselers" and practical politicians are now available here, as in every large city. Seekers after special privileges have already realized this fact, have shown and are showing more than ordinary interest in the city. If the residents of the Newtons desire their city to be governed well in future years each must do his or her share in helping to select and elect capable, honest members for the City Government.

Persons in Newton who are too lazy to keep rubbish and garbage separate are not going to have the garbage collected at their residences if they continue to mix rubbish with it. John Janse, contractor for the collection of garbage has instructed his employees to refuse to collect garbage which also contains paper, tin cans, glass and other articles which cannot be classified as garbage. It is tough on pigs that endeavor to eat such stuff, and it is tough on the men who collect it. One of Janse's employees recently received a severe cut on his right hand from a piece of broken glass dumped into a garbage pail by some "conscientious" householder.

Newton Theological School Opens Year

Has Largest Enrollment In Its History

The academic year for Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre has opened with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. Numbered among the entering class members are students from eight European countries and also Brazil. The fall program opened with a chapel service yesterday in charge of Professor Woodman Bradbury. This morning the Rev. Russell Stafford, D.D., of the Old South Church, Boston, spoke to the students and in the afternoon they heard Dr. Frederick H. Page, president of the Andover Board of Trustees and Dr. Hugh A. Heath, secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist Convention.

The first social event of the school year was a students' supper Wednesday evening in Sturtevant Hall. Classes started yesterday and in the evening there was a devotional service in the chapel in charge of Dr. Arthur H. Bradford of Providence, R. I.

Tonight will be student night at the First Baptist Church, Newton Centre. All of the new students will be introduced to members of the congregation at a reception, in keeping with a custom of many years standing.

The affiliation of these two historic institutions, Andover Theological Seminary and the Newton Theological Institution has brought changes in the faculty. Professors joining the faculty are: the Rev. Harold W. Ruopp, of Delaware, Ohio, coming as professor of the Art of Preaching to the place left vacant by the death of Prof. C. Edmund Neil; the Rev. Dwight J. Bradley as lecturer in Pastoral Problems; Philip Guiles, instructor in Psychiatry; and Edgar Sheffield Brightman, lecturer in Theology.

LEGIONNAIRES GO TO DETROIT

Over 100 members of Newton Post, American Legion, including 40 members of the band, departed from Newtonville at 7:45 last Saturday night on a special train of Pullman cars for the Legion convention at Detroit. The Detroit-bound Legion members paraded from Elks Building at Newton to the railroad station at Newtonville and the band gave a short concert prior to the arrival of the train. Over 1000 relatives and friends of the ex-servicemen were present at the depot to see them off. Other members of Newton Post went to the convention by automobiles.

CLASSES IN LIP READING

The evening classes in Lip Reading will be continued this year as part of the course offered by the Evening School conducted by the city. By means of lip reading the hard of hearing may learn to use their eyes in place of their failing ears and to know what people say by watching the lips. The classes offer the opportunity for the adult hard of hearing to make themselves more efficient in the business world and happier in social life. It is hoped that many who have not yet taken advantage of this course will do so this year.

WANTS MAGAZINES

The new John W. Weeks' Junior High School Library at Newton Centre opened last week. In order to build up its collection, the librarian is very anxious to get back numbers of any good magazines such as the National Geographic, World's Work, American Country Life, Current History, Harper's, Travel, etc., for 1931. She also would be very grateful for any attractive, worthwhile standard books, or sets of books if anyone cared to contribute them.

FASHION REVIEW

The Newton Hospital Aid Association plans a delightful affair for the afternoon of October 13 at Brae Burn Country Club. A Fashion Revue, the very latest models to be shown by R. H. Stearns, will be followed by a Bridge Party. The president, Mrs. George Talbot will be assisted in the arrangements by Mrs. Pitt F. Drew, Mrs. Cecil Barker, Mrs. Francis Williams, Mrs. F. Ashley Day, Jr., and Mrs. Walter L. McGill.

NEWTON IN BYGONE DAYS

Before me is a copy of the first number of the NEWTON REPUBLICAN, predecessor of the NEWTON GRAPHIC. It is dated Friday, June 13, 1873. Tom Lawson had not given gloomy significance to such a combination of day and date 58 years ago, so the publishers of the new Newton paper were not deterred by superstition from starting on Friday the 13th.

It is interesting to note that some matters which concerned Newton in those days were the same as matters which concern Newtonians of today. On the first page of the REPUBLICAN is an article regarding the annexation of certain suburbs to Boston. Also on the first page is a letter from a Newton business man urging the new paper to boost Newton as a trading centre, criticising the practice of Newton residents trading elsewhere and calling attention to the good results which came to the merchants of North Bridge-water from advertising. For the benefit of our readers, it should be stated that North Bridge-water is now called Brockton.

Another item on Page 1 of the old paper states that "no town in this State presents so many attractions for fine residences as can be found in the various villages in Newton. The natural attractions of the place have been splendidly reinforced by a liberal use of money and brains."

Newton had been enjoying a building boom during the 10 years preceding 1873 according to the opening editorial of "THE REPUBLICAN." During that period its population had nearly doubled and its valuation increased 100%. The second editorial in the initial number of the paper advocated the change from town to city form of government; a question then before the people of Newton. It was voted that autumn to make the change and Newton became a city in 1874.

The advertisements in the paper show how things have changed since 1873. Stiles' stove store advertises that it will clean, polish, store and promptly return stoves. James Mellen advertises that he will move buildings in a workman like manner. Upholsterers advertise feather beds; horse shoers tell of paying special attention to horses with "bad feet." Albert Brackett, in addition to advertising cabinet and wood, also sold hay and grain. There were no gasoline filling stations in those days. Joseph Avila announced that he had opened a Hair Dressing Salon in Warner's Block, where ladies could have their hair cut and shampooed. Murdoch & Bacon in addition to advertising Dry and Fancy Goods and Gents Furnishings, also advertised crockery and glassware. Their store was in Bacon's Block. Field & Hammond ran a gents furnishing store in Howes Block and announced that they had just received a large assortment of custom-made vests, diagonal alpaca coats and linen pants.

Politics were played in those days, even as in later times. A letter in a succeeding copy of the REPUBLICAN chides the Secretary of the Republican Town Committee for showing partiality at a Republican caucus to a prominent town official by recognizing this gentleman's nomination for the office of Chairman before that of another citizen whose name had been placed in nomination first.

The second number of the REPUBLICAN contained a detailed and dramatic description of a fire which largely destroyed Paul's ice houses at Crystal Lake. The efforts of the volunteer fire fighters who manned the hand tubs from Newton Centre and the Upper Falls and those who came with the new steam fire-engines from Newton Corner and West Newton were highly eulogized. It was chronicled that although these amateur firemen did not save much of the ice houses, they did prevent the destruction of most of the ice.

BECOMES DEPT. HEAD AT TUFTS

Announcement has been made by Dr. A. Warren Stearns, dean of the Tufts Medical School, of the selection of Dr. Sydney Dalrymple as head of the department of pathology to succeed Dr. Harold E. MacMahon who is now in Berlin. Dr. Dalrymple is pathologist at the Newton Hospital and will continue his duties there.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

Edited by WARREN K. BRIMBLECOM

NEWTON SCRIMMAGES WITH ST. CHARLES

Tuesday afternoon Coach Ralph N. Sanborn of the Newton High varsity eleven sent his charges against Coach Donald Houghton's squad from the St. Charles school of Waltham at Cladin Field. There was little edge one way or the other with several players from both squads standing out at various times. With each team having possession of the ball for six plays regardless of downs or penalties, there was no actual scoring opportunity offered. The workout lasted nearly an hour with the Newton mentor using his entire squad of three lines and four backfields in the melee. Near the close of the session the starting team was back on the field to wind it up. St. Charles with a much smaller squad presented a strong front to everything Newton offered and on the offense gave the Newton linemen plenty to handle.

In Newton's backfield Warren Huston stood out most prominently with his punting and his accurate passes to Bill Duane and Walter Blackler proved Newton's most effective offensive weapons. Everett Gallant, St. Charles veteran back, was at quarter for the visitors and his work in all departments was worthy of note. He was on the starting end of the last play of the afternoon when he tossed a short lateral to Boudreau who raced for the goal line and outdistancing all the orange and black players. The play was called back and another started as no scores were being allowed.

St. Charles kicked off to open the scrimmage and Mullen ran it back twenty yards to what might have been the thirty yard line. In six plays Newton failed to gain materially except on a short forward from Huston to Mullen. St. Charles was given the ball about Newton's forty yard line and in its six plays advanced about twenty yards, the major part being on a forward pass. Newton again had its turn and two passes from Houston to Blackler and Mullen, each for twenty yards planted the ball in St. Charles territory for the only time during the workout. Newton's second team then took the field and St. Charles drove them back with simple formations consisting mostly of delayed bucks and off-tackle plunges. It was during this period when Boudreau got away on the receiving end of the lateral from Gallant. Later Newton was back on its goal line and was smothered for what would have been a safety if scoring was in order.

The line play of the visitors was dominated by Lombardi at left guard and Corcoran at center while George Gulian was outstanding for the locals. Frank Vassalotti, Newton's left guard and mainstay in last year's line, failed to show at his best but it is expected he will return to form shortly. Undoubtedly the extreme heat affected the playing of both outfits to some extent. Fred Perkins, a leading end candidate, and Tony DiMaio, guard, both letter men in 1930, were out of action with lame shoulders. They are expected to be in shape for tomorrow's contest with Arlington.

Coach Sanborn lost one of his best center substitutes over the week end when Horace Wood, intermediate star a year ago and first reserve for Bob Patterson, was in an automobile accident on a trip to Cape Cod. Wood was quite badly cut about the face, nine stitches being taken in various places, and will probably be out of football for the season.

The loss of Wood caused the Newton coaches to shift Alexander Kevorkian, brother of the former Brown iron man, from tackle to center. Against St. Charles his inexperience at his new berth was noticeable but with the tutoring being given him by assistant Coach Considine, center on the same iron man eleven at Brown as was the elder Kevorkian, the younger Kevorkian should improve rapidly. He is a rangy lad with plenty of aggressiveness to make good in his new role.

The session with St. Charles showed Coach Sanborn and his assistant Charlie Considine weaknesses that they set out at once to correct to make the orange and black ready for the curtain raiser of the 1931 season at Arlington tomorrow. Arlington with one victory to its credit is out to make it two straight while the local outfit will be rarin' to start the new season off on the right foot.

Coach Sanborn has a double reason for desiring victory tomorrow. In addition to hoping to start his first season as the head coach at Newton with an opening game victory, his charges will also be opposing a team under Coach Fred Ostergren. The latter once coached at Portland, Me., and while there sent a team of his against that of Thornton Academy which was coached by Mr. Sanborn at the time. Ostergren's pupils won a close victory over Sanborn's lads and the new Newton mentor is anxious to even the count.

Tomorrow Coach Sanborn probably will start the eleven which took the field first in the scrimmage with St. Charles on Tuesday with the possible exception of two positions. If in shape Perkins and DiMaio will be on the field in place of Malloy and Geraci. If such is the case Newton will line-up against Arlington as follows:

Tuscher or Malloy, lg.
W. Giles, lt.
Vassalotti, lg.
Patterson, c.
DiMaio or Geraci, rg.
Gulian, rt.
Perkins or Malloy, re.
Mullen, qb.
Huston, lb.
Duane, rlb.
Blackler, fb.

Romane Cole and Gordon Lindberg, former Newton high football athletes, are playing on Team B in the Tufts varsity scrimmages. Cole is at end and Lindberg at tackle.

MID CLEATS AND PADS

Four of Newton High's nine 1931 football opponents opened their season the past week end. Arlington and Cambridge Latin pried the lid off Friday. Arlington was victorious 7 to 6 the Cantabs just failing to win out. The final whistle blew with the ball on the Arlington one-foot line in possession of the Cantabs. Quincy eked out a 7 to 6 victory over Abington. Woburn went to Peabody and won out by the baseball score of 2 to 0. A bad pass from center forced Peabody to take the safety in the final session. Rindge went to Salem and was defeated 12 to 0. The Salemites, however, found the Rindge team a tough nut to crack for three periods. Tomorrow the season will be in full swing. Camb. Latin tackles Salem. Everett meets Providence Commercial. Quincy goes to Melrose. Rindge entertains Wakefield which held Medford to a scoreless tie last Saturday. Waltham opens with Watertown. Its guests are Brookline treks to Lynn. Central for its opening set-to for some of the games on tomorrow's card.

SPORT NOTES

Gilligan Not on Yale Squad
Joe Gilligan, youngest of the Gilligan brothers of Newton high athletic fame, has given up football this year. Last fall he played with the Yale freshman eleven. He will devote his attention to studies this fall and will concentrate on hockey this winter. He is a good golfer and plans to try out for the varsity team in that sport and possibly baseball in the spring.

Harrington Due to Start
Dan Harrington of Newtonville, B. U. athletic star, will probably be at center when the whistle blows to start the opening game with Williams on the latter's gridiron tomorrow. Art Chamberlain, teammate of Harrington at Newton high a few years ago, will most likely be Harrington's first reserve.

Pesky Scores for Harvard
In a practice game with the second varsity squad Saturday at Cambridge the Harvard varsity ran rough-shod to win 40-0. Carl Pescosolido, former Newton High and Deerfield athlete, scored one of the six touchdowns while playing at right halfback for Team C. Pesky, as he is more familiarly known, has since been moved to quarterback in the same backfield. Bill Sutcliffe, former Newton and Bridgton athlete, was at right end for the second varsity during part of the scrimmage.

Gilligan Back at Harvard
Tommy Gilligan, former Newton High, Exeter Academy and Harvard athlete, returns to Harvard next week as a senior. Tommy does not plan to participate in athletics and will concentrate on studying for his degree next June.

McCrudden Training Nights
Jim McCrudden, Newton and North-eastern University back star, is training nights this fall in preparation for the coming cross-country season with the Husky varsity. McCrudden is working at present but will be ready to face New Hampshire University in the opening race on October 10th.

Hapgood and Brown on Team B
Dick Hapgood and Larry Brown of Newton are sophomore members of the Brown varsity Team B line. Hapgood, a former Newton high and Cushing Academy athlete, is a guard, and Brown, whose parents moved to Newton about a year ago, is a tackle.

Hemson at End for Penn
Melbourne Hemson of Newton Lower Falls is among the end candidates for the Penn State football team. Last season Hemson was on the squad and with his experience he should see considerable more service this season.

Pesky Shifted to Quarter
Carl Pescosolido was shifted to quarterback on Harvard's Team C backfield Tuesday and did good work at his new position in scrimmage against the seconds. Reports stated that "Pesky" weighs only 160, stands but 5 ft. 7 in., and his size is a disadvantage in varsity play as it is conducted today. His tremendous speed in short distances is something that will be a great asset to Harvard's running attack if the handicap of his small stature can be overcome. He is the fastest man on the squad with the possible exception of track captain Gene Record.

Newton Centre Wins Again
In a return match between tennis teams representing the Newton Centre Tennis Association and the West Roxbury Tennis Club at Newton Centre last Saturday the local team was again the victors seven to two. Letters To The Editor

OBJECTS TO POLICE TACTICS

981 Beacon Street, Newton Centre, Mass.

To the Editor:

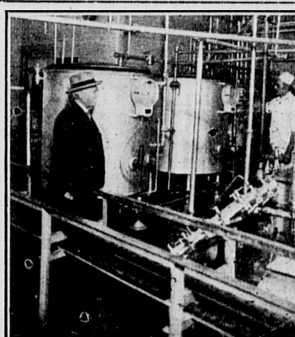

Dear Sir:

I would like very much to express an opinion and contribution to be more specific, through the medium of your inimitable and indispensable paper, relative to a disgraceful condition now existing in regards to the police stopping you shortly after midnight, and putting you through a third degree. It is all right to be careful, and be on the lookout for robbers, but I fail to see why citizens of this beautiful city should be stopped, as I have been twice, and asked what I was doing at such an hour. It behooves the Chief of Police to get busy and issue a mandate to the effect that our brave(?) gendarmes put their time to better advantage than that of stopping law abiding citizens.

It would not be out of order either if I mentioned that there should be a house cleaning, after what one reads that happened recently of a starving man unknowingly wandering into an estate, being bitten by a dog, taken to a hospital, and then later arrested by one who has the unenviable reputation of it being said that he would arrest his own brother. This is a fine state of affairs to treat a poor starving man, to arrest him, but one's reputation for being hard boiled must, I suppose, be maintained, no matter what the cost may be.

And the arrest of two citizens whose dogs managed to escape—and to be fined $10 for that. What a sorry plight we are in. And what fine neighbors one has who cause that arrest. It might be more beneficial if a little more time was spent in rounding up notorious bootleggers—instead of arresting people whose only crime seems to be that of having a pet break loose—and is made to pay for one of the silliest orders ever issued in this city—an insult to everyone's intelligence. But, of course, one must be kept in the spotlight, no matter what the cost may be in tears and heartaches—but it is certainly a blot on Newton's fair name that such things should be occurring within its fair gates, when there might be things done which would be of a greater advantage to the community in general, and to our neighbors in particular.

ROTARY CLUB

Mr. Harry Kinsman, secretary of the Massachusetts Tax Association, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Newton Rotary Club at the Woodland Golf Club on Monday. In the absence of President Frank L. Richardson who is on his vacation, vice-president Walter L. McCammon presided.

Mr. Kinsman stated that twenty percent of the people were paying the taxes for all and that in Massachusetts there were nine hundred thousand and twenty-five income tax payers. Where formerly the State did few things outside of the regular business of Government it now has broadened out until it reaches many things. The speaker cited the purchase of Salisbury beach, the big pier at Gloucester, the pier at the Cape Cod Canal, public golf courses as examples of some of the ways in which the taxpayers' money was being expended.

Mr. Kinsman believed that both business and income are being taxed out of proportion to their magnitude and that the indifference of the people to these matters is a reason for the poor measures going through. It was voted to place a motion to endorse the work of the Mass. Tax Association before the board of directors of the Newton Club.

Tom Goodwin received a tremendous ovation when it was announced that he had won the 1931 Rotary Golf tournament defeating George Martin in the final match.

The outing last week-end at Brewster where former member Bill Halliday again showed his ability as a host was declared a great success.

Dr. Cecil Clark gave a very comprehensive resume of the completed plans for the fall Conclave of New England Rotary Clubs at Poland Spring early next month.

The Mystic Building Wrecking Company offered $1 for the structure; the American Building Wrecking Company asked $345 to raze the building and the John McDonald Company asked $955 to tear it down.

The regular weekly meeting of the Newton Kiwanis Club was held on Tuesday, September 22nd, at the Elk's Club in Newton Corner. Dr. F. H. Paul presided. The attendance prize was won by Frank M. Grant. The speaker of the day, Mrs. Cella Wellman, Probation Officer attached to the Newton District Court in charge of women and juveniles, was introduced by U. G. Wheeler, Superintendent of the Newton Public Schools. Mrs. Wellman gave an interesting talk on the social service side of the Probation Office, relating her experiences since 1915 as an officer of the court, telling how prohibition had made much more work for the courts and caused much more crime and hardships than had existed heretofore.

The club was recently honored at the New England District Convention held at Falmouth Heights by the election of James P. Gallagher, prominent Newton attorney, First Vice President of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and a past President of the Newton Kiwanis Club, to the office of Lieutenant-Governor in the Fifth Division.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

The fall season of the Hunnewell Club will open next week Tuesday evening with an Open House and Smoker planned for members and their guests. The bowling alleys have been made ready for the coming season and prizes will be offered for members and non-members at the open house. Refreshments will be served by the House Committee.

The various committees are at work arranging an interesting program for the coming year. It is expected that a calendar of events will shortly be issued. The usual house bowling tournaments for men, ladies and mixed, will be held. The entertainment committee is planning a series of dances and plans are being formulated for a show, or stunt night and also a children's party.

Bridge tournaments will be held with changes from former years through the introduction of Contract bridge parties, non-progressive parties as well as Auction bridge.

A member of the club has donated two beautiful prizes to be presented to the member who bowls the highest single string (handicap) during competition in any of the tournaments this season.

ABOUT TOWN

A correspondent has a letter in the GRAPHIC this week criticizing the Newton Police for stopping citizens during late night hours and for bringing into court persons who failed to restrain their dogs in conformity with the restraining ordinance. We fail to agree with the correspondent on the latter matter. In our opinion the Newton police erred in being too lenient rather than too severe regarding the enforcement of the restraining order.

There are a number of dog owners in this city who permitted their dogs to run loose during the 90 days the restraining order has been in effect. The lives and health of humans are of more import than the comfort of dogs, and persons who own dogs and do not restrain them when efforts are being made to curb that horrible disease, rabies, are not entitled to much sympathy. Dogs afflicted with rabies are still running loose and biting persons in this section. Only a few days ago one such animal bit three persons and a number of dogs in Waltham. If rabies continues prevalent in this State, dog owners eventually must expect to have a permanent restraining order in effect, such as is in effect in other States and countries.

ABOUT PERSONAL LIBERTY

There has been a good deal of talk during the past ten or twelve years about certain Federal legislation constituting an invasion of personal liberty. But new examples along that line have been recently afforded in Oklahoma where the Governor called on the National Guard to compel citizens owning oil wells to shut them down and in Texas where the State legislature has been asked to pass a law to compel oil well owners to restrict their production. And now the Governors of the cotton growing States are seriously considering calling their legislatures together to pass laws absolutely forbidding the planting of cotton next year. Indeed the legislature of Louisiana already has passed such a law. To tell a man who owns an oil well that he must shut down, or to tell a land owner what crops he shall not plant, would seem to be about as rank an "invasion of personal liberty" as could be devised. It all merely demonstrates that occasional surrender of certain personal rights for the promotion of public welfare is one of the prices we pay for living in civilized society.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. Bentley

Hooking in Money

When miniature golf was first introduced many folks remarked, "Well, well, I wonder what they'll think of next!" Personally, I had no idea that "next" would come so soon. However, a bulletin issued by the Federal Department of Commerce containing the opinion of the Commissioner of Fisheries declares that "miniature" trout fishing "bids fair to become as popular as the Tom Thumb golf idea."

According to the revelations from Washington enterprising individuals in the vicinity of Denver, Colorado, have secured suitable tracts of land and thereon constructed concrete pools and raceways. These are stocked with legal sized trout obtained from commercial hatcheries, which happen to be numerous in that vicinity.

Here then is a real city preserve to which admission is charged. For a specified sum per inch of fish caught from these pools the visitor may "go fishing." Of course the necessary tackle is furnished by the proprietor. It means you may spend an afternoon or evening amid the busy haunts of men in a pastime heretofore restricted to sylvan glades and mountain streams.

The public, they say, has jumped at the bait. People find, it appears, opportunity to secure a delicacy for food along with a period of recreation. Perhaps this sort of a game offers more sport than other forms of diversion. Certainly it is a novelty.

The fly in the ointment—I was about to say the insect on the trout hook—is that special conditions are necessary for the successful development of this new amusement. There are not so many cities as there might be where the perfect combination of suitable water supply, fish, etc., are available.

Doubtless any obstacles which now seem insurmountable will be overcome by the resourceful purveyors of public entertainment. When in every city and town you find miniature trout streams receiving a large patronage it will be quite in order to exclaim, "Well, well, what will they think of next!"

Yes, This Is Newton

Other cities may have their political cauldrons on the fire but I haven't heard any talk of such things in Newton. That is, there has been little of it that has reached my ears. O, yes, somebody said, "Of course Mayor Weeks will run again," and I said, "Of course." That was merely a repetition of the obvious—quite as if one of us had observed, "Fine day, isn't it?" and the reply had been, "Yes, isn't it."

We in Newton are lucky in many respects as far as mayoralty contests are concerned. You have got to give credit both to the Mayor and the voters. The Mayor does his job well and the voters recognize that fact. In a lot of Massachusetts cities it doesn't make any difference how well the Mayor performs his tasks, for there is a group with an idea that if somebody else were Mayor their personal fortunes could be greatly improved. Then comes a battle to oust a thoroughly capable, honest and efficient Mayor for no reason except that he is in the path of another's political ambitions.

I know that coats of tan still remain on faces of many Newton citizens and that makes it seem early to talk of Newton's city election. It isn't too early, however, to congratulate ourselves on our good fortune and thank our stars that we've got a man like Mayor Weeks who is willing to give up his time and energies to running our city.

Now all this may sound smug and complacent. Possibly the few not in sympathy with the present administration may read it as a campaign document. It is intended for neither purpose. Unbiased observers will agree that it is true and that Newton is relieved of considerable political claptrap which many other Massachusetts cities are forced to endure every day of the year.

All Turned Around

Whatever we may think about traffic regulations in Newton it is doubtful if they are any less perfect here than other places. That seems like extracting comfort from a misery-like company situation. What was intended, however, was to point out that really we are not one-half as muddled as some parts of Boston. To me the most amusing and perplexing situation exists at the corner of Boston Common where Park Street ascends the hill and Tremont street runs north and south.

If a stranger comes up out the subway with his head clear, his vision unobscured and faculties fully under control he may assume himself well prepared for the complexities of Boston's narrow thoroughfares and the confusion of its traffic rules. But if he isn't carried off his feet and isn't compelled to steady himself against a building for support then he is one of the distinguished minority.

It cannot be said there are not plenty of signal lights. On the contrary I think the whole trouble lies in the abundance of them. You see there must be a guide for the vehicles coming down the Park Street hill, another for the vehicles going north towards Scollay Square, another for those headed South; still another set for those turning right at Park street church to ascend the hill and two more for pedestrians crossing in the several directions.

I don't know how many times I have started from the subway exit to cross Park Street and have been forced to turn back, walk through the Common to Beacon Street and there cross over to Park St. Now you may think that is odd, but try and straighten the system out in your own mind. At the head of Park Street on Beacon Street you will find a well-defined system. First the cars shoot north over Beacon Street, then those coming up the hill have their chance and after that pedestrians are allowed plenty of opportunity to cross.

Why this difference between the bottom and the top of Park Street? And, while we are on the subject, why do pedestrians have barely time to scurry across at the junction of Beacon, Tremont and School streets when vehicles are permitted three times as long? If you think I am exaggerating I ask you to look these things over for yourself. I don't know how many experts have attempted to produce the perfect traffic control but I am sure they are numerous. Yet the thing is still a mess at this and other busy corners.

If Bathing Suits Stretch

I got my wish. That is, my appeal to readers for some interesting vacation experience has been answered. It is one of those intimate family stories that we sort of enjoy passing along. The reader did not put his communications on paper. Instead he stopped me on the street with "I take from what you write you're looking for some gossip about the way your friends spent their summer. Well, here's a hot one." With that he unfolded a tale of a bathing suit.

It appears that a young husband and wife, with their three small children, were spending a month in a seashore cottage. The wife's father and younger sister (the wife's sister and therefore the father's other daughter) were asked to spend a week as guests. Father came down Saturday but for some reason the young woman was delayed several days. However, father brought the major part of the luggage.

"I'm going to take a swim," father announced not many hours after he had arrived. He thereupon explained that his daughter had placed a bathing suit for him in the suitcase. It was a new one and within a short time he opened the suitcase and brought it forth. The poor old man—that's the way they often describe father nowadays—did not think that his daughter might have also put her own new bathing suit in the same suitcase. As far as he was concerned there was only one bathing suit in the world—the one he intended to wear.

Well, father retired to his room to dress or rather undress for a dip in the ocean. It wasn't long afterwards that the son-in-law heard his name called and rushed to father's room. Now father's figure is one of those which expands in globular style midway between his head and his feet. In consequence he was having extreme difficulty in getting into a bathing suit, obviously much too small for him. But his son-in-law was resourceful and when he found that the shoulder straps did not meet by many inches he conceived the bright idea of piecing them out with tape. Something like that had to be done because father was determined to have a swim.

Had his married daughter been at home to give advice instead of out with the car and the children there might have been a different ending to this tragic happening. But as it happened father wore his unmarried daughter's bathing suit, pulled in all out of shape so that the poor girl can't use it again, but he had his fun in the water.

When the unmarried daughter arrived some days later she showed father his new bathing suit, which was still in the suitcase. And she cried, too, because she didn't have anything to wear in the water.

The Wages of Crime

With many "true confessions" publications offering money to criminals who write freely of their misdeeds it looks, from the number of crimes reported, as if all the crooks were going in for literature.

FORMER NEWTON RESIDENT DIES

George E. Donkin, known to old residents of this city, died last week at his late home in North Falmouth. He was born in Nova Scotia 72 years ago and came to this city when a child with his parents. As a boy he went to work for E. T. Billings, the druggist at Newton Corner, and when Arthur Hudson bought the Billings store in 1876, George Donkin, then a youth, continued in his employ. At Mr. Hudson's suggestion he attended the College of Pharmacy in Boston and became a registered pharmacist. He married Ella Wheeler, who resided on Washington street, Newton, and went to New York where he studied medicine and obtained his degree. Many years ago he moved to North Falmouth and started a store there and Mrs. Donkin became postmistress at that place.

He is survived by his widow and three sisters. Two of his sisters, Misses Ada and Ella Donkin taught school at Newton Corner for some years and later became teachers in Boston.

POLICE NEWS

Harry Thornton of 491 Huntington avenue, Boston, was found not guilty in the Newton court on Monday by Judge Bacon when charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Thornton was arrested early on the morning of September 13th at Newton Corner. The testimony developed that the policeman who arrested the defendant had their attention attracted to him when they heard him arguing with his wife. He had the odor of liquor on his breath, according to the arresting officers and admitted having had one drink some hours before, but displayed no evidences of intoxication. For driving without his license in his possession he was found guilty and fined.

John Barry, 18, of Houghton street, Somerville; Henry Burns, 17, of Elm street, Cambridge, and Thomas McDermott, 14, of Hampshire street, Cambridge, were in the Newton court last Friday charged with stealing merchandise off a Boston & Maine automobile truck on which they were also stealing a ride. The theft occurred in West Newton where the driver of the truck resides. The boys were given suspended sentences: Barry to Concord Reformatory, Burns to Shirley School, and McDermott to the Lyman School.

In the Newton Court last Friday, Dorothy Thompson of 1090 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, was fined $10 for speeding. Charles Belbin of Elton avenue, Watertown was in the Newton court on Tuesday charged with using an automobile without authority. He was given a suspended jail sentence of 3 months and ordered to pay $50 for damaging the clutch of the car. On July 16 Belbin took a car from the Beacon Chevrolet Company at Newton Centre to deliver to an automobile company in Cambridge. The police charged that instead, he took the car and used it for his own purposes and it was recently found abandoned in Cambridge.

The open season for shooting pheasants is not on. But this did not stop some boys at West Newton on Monday afternoon from shooting at some of these birds. Neither did it occur to them that a rifle bullet travels a long distance and a thickly settled community is no place in which to use a rifle. They did not kill any pheasants, but it was fortunate some person was not killed. One of the bullets went through a window in the home of John Walsh, 21 Pleasant street, West Newton and spent its force on a brick fireplace in the living room. Newton police located the boys who were using the rifle and they agreed to pay for the damage done at the Walsh house.

Judge William Day of South Boston, who presided at the inquest on the death of Dorothy Jordan of Endicott street, Newton Highlands, who was killed by an automobile on August 17, presented his report last Friday and ruled that Joseph Richards of New York City, driver of the car which killed Miss Jordan, was not to blame. The girl had alighted from a bus on Commonwealth avenue, at Walnut street, and was crossing the avenue to take a Newton Highlands bus when she was hit by the automobile and fatally injured.

W. F. Cleary of Cambridge reported to the Newton police last Friday that a house under construction, owned by him on Winchester street, Newton Highlands, had been entered and a gas heater, hot-water tank and other plumbing fixtures had been stolen.

Charles Maloney of 36 Rockledge road, Newton Highlands was in the Newton Court on Monday charged with having failed to restrain his dog, as ordered by the special city ordinance. The case was continued until October 1.

A woman passenger on a Middlesex & Boston bus which was traveling along Crafts street, told the police that she saw an object hurtling through the air and then observed, as the bus passed, that it was some person. She called to the bus operator to stop the bus, alighted from the vehicle and hailed a passing automobile which took the injured man to his home. William Baker of Waltham, the bus operator, told the police that he was driving easterly on Crafts street when he saw a rapidly speeding automobile hit a man about 150 feet ahead.

In the Newton court on Wednesday Mike Loback of Beach street, Needham was given a suspended fine of $10 for collecting garbage in this city without a permit. Lawrence Dichino of Linden street, Wellesley was fined $10 for driving an automobile not properly lighted. Joseph Eno of Natick was fined $10 for speeding.

PARAMOUNT THEATRE—NEWTON
 "The Smiling Lieutenant," another fast-moving, buoyant, entertaining production by Ernst Lubitsch, conceded by many to be the foremost director of motion pictures through his two outstanding successes, "The Love Parade" and "Monte Carlo" will be shown at the Paramount Theatre, Newton for four days beginning Sunday, Sept. 27th. Maurice Chevalier, the inimitable Frenchman is the star of the story of a gay and carefree military officer who loves one girl and is forced to marry another, a princess of royal blood. In addition to Chevalier, who incidentally sings any number of gay intimate songs, the cast includes two talented leading ladies, Claudette Colbert and Miriam Hopkins, not to forget Charlie Ruggles and George Barbier, cast in comedy roles. Other interesting pictures have been booked for the rest of the week.

NEWTON W. C. T. U.

The first fall meeting of the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the Newton Highlands Congregational church, corner Lincoln and Hartford streets, on Oct. 1, at 2.30. Mrs. Mabelle M. Groves will give the "Highlights of the World Convention," and Miss Cora Stanwood Cobb will speak on "Scientific Temperance Instruction."

Mrs. Jenipher M. Sanderson will act as hostess.

There are twenty-six Girl Scout troops in the City of Newton and any girl ten years old or over who would like to join the organization should be able to find a troop in her village. Most of the junior troops meet in the afternoon while those made up of high school girls have their meetings in the evening.

Troops and captains are registered at Headquarters, and inquiries about the best troop to join will be answered there. Some of the troops start their meetings next week, while others will not begin until the following week.

As usual new leaders are needed to help carry on the work. A training course to prepare those interested in joining the organization will be started in October.

Last Spring when the final figures of the year were taken, Newton had 19 registered Girl Scouts. In addition to them there were 94 little girls in the Brownie pack, making the total registration over 1000. This year, with adequate leadership, we aim at not only a larger number of Girl Scouts, but to better Girl Scouts.

This year more than ever since the Newton Local Council Girl Scouts was chartered in 1917, will our girls be glad of the practical knowledge as well as the ideals the Girl Scout Organization holds ever before them. An organization which teaches one to "Do what you can with what you have where you are" and which encourages the girls not only to say, "Let's live our loyalty so people will learn to know the ideals that we love," but sees them really live—"A Girl Scout is one who thinks more of others than she does of herself" cannot but help make the community in which they exist a better place in which to live.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

With Rev. John Shade Franklin of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church in West Newton as principal speaker Norumbega Christian Endeavor Union, which incorporates the Lincoln Park young people, opened its autumn program last Tuesday evening with a business meeting and social at the Waverley Congregational Church.

Union President H. Newton Jones of West Newton led a brief business session devoted to the outline of a fall calendar, the Union head making announcement particularly of a supper meeting to be held in the Panell Congregational Church Tuesday evening, October 13, and of a Halloween party scheduled for Friday evening, October 30 with the Lakeview Union Evangelical Church of Waltham entertaining the Endeavorers.

Mr. Franklin's timely address on "A Fresh Start" was replete with inspiring suggestions for seasonal adapting of one's church, home, and business habits to better fit life's mould.

President Jones called the attention of Union officers to a workers' conference that will be held at the Baptist Church in Everett on Saturday, October 24, and to a two-day session of similar color to be held in the Colonial Hotel at Gardner, Massachusetts October 17 and 18, Saturday and Sunday.

An important meeting of the Norumbega Union cabinet will be held next Tuesday evening, September 29, with Miss Betty Brooks of 38 Putnam street, West Newton as hostess.

NEWTON YOUTH COLLAPSES IN MAINE

Walter E. Billings of Newton Upper Falls, collapsed while walking along Main street at Brunswick, Me., on Tuesday evening. He is a member of the freshman class at Bowdoin College and was taken to the college infirmary. Dr. Johnson, the college physician stated that the youth had apparently overworked getting ready to enter college.

FROSTED FOODS AT WEST NEWTON

In many West Newton homes today the housewife is being congratulated by her family on the first quick-frozen food prepared for their approval. Yesterday scores of curious and interested men and women visited Cochrane's Market at 993 Watertown street, where Birdseye Frosted Foods were placed on sale. The frosted foods are sealed in and frosted at temperatures above below zero, are kept in special cabinets in Cochrane's Market which maintain unchanging temperatures of not over eight degrees above zero. And the weather inside the cabinet is zero most of the time.

Visitors to the store learned that the products are not allowed to thaw in the slightest until delivered by the retailer to his customer. Peas, raspberries, and other vegetables and fruits have their original lively colors and luscious flavor. All the frozen foods are as hard as marble, but quickly thaw when exposed to normal temperatures. They cook, in some instances, quicker than unfrosted foods.

One of the most interesting features to the first purchasers of the new foods was that out-of-season foods can be held by the Birdseye process and be eaten in their prime out of season. Raspberries, peas and others fruits and vegetables will be available this coming winter as fresh as if they had just been picked.

Y. M. C. A.

The bowling Alleys opened on September 22nd. They have been put in first class condition and everything is in readiness for the Fall Tournament which will start on Monday, October 5th. Entries for the Tournament close September 30th with Lewis C. Bills, Chairman of the Bowling Committee.

Public Speaking

There will be an open meeting for those interested in Public Speaking at the Newton Y. M. C. A. on Friday, October 2nd, at 7:45 P. M. Mr. Roy V. Collins, President of the Newton Board of Aldermen, will preside, and Mr. Edward M. Rowe, who has so successfully conducted the Public Speaking Classes for the past five years, will be the speaker. Opportunity to secure information about the classes which start the following week will be given. This lecture is free to all interested.

Boy's Division

During the past two weeks the members of the Boys' Division have been enjoying a swim at four o'clock every afternoon. This hour was set in order to give the boys from Waltham, Watertown, Brighton and Allston the opportunity to enjoy the full swimming period.

The regular classes in the Gymnasium will start on September 28th, and they will mark the opening of the fall activities. Soon after the classes get underway, the social activities in the Boys' Division will start. They will include monthly dinners, parties, hikes, treasure hunts, etc. in addition to the Clubs. The Hi-Y Clubs of Newton, Watertown, and Wellesley will start their programs during the first part of October, the Junior Clubs, Stamp Club, and Art Club will start shortly after, and also a new Club for the Employed Boys will be opened.

Groups from the Boys' Division will attend the Harvard-Bates football game on October 3rd, and the Harvard-New Hampshire game on October 10th. These groups will be supervised by one of the Secretaries.

Physical Department

The fall physical activities will get under way at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday with the starting of the boys' and men's classes. In preparation for the fall program the gymnasium is being cleaned and necessary repairs will be made. The handball and squash racquet courts will be repainted, and the equipment for filtering the water of the swimming pool will be put in A-1 shape. All of the boys' classes with the exception of the Employed Boys' Class which meets in the evening, will have their program on the athletic field which adjoins the "Y" building. The fall outdoor program for them will consist of tag-football and soccer leagues, and each class will be followed by a twenty minute swimming period.

Four different classes are scheduled for school boys and one for working boys. On Tuesday and Thursday at 2:45 P. M. and on Saturday at 9:30 A. M. there is the Junior A Class for ten to twelve years of age living in Newton—also on the same days there is the Junior B Class for boys twelve to fourteen years of age. On Monday and Wednesday at 4:15 P. M. and on Saturday at 9:30 A. M. there is the Cadet Class also for boys ten to twelve years of age who cannot attend the Junior A Class. The class for High School boys will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays at 3:15 P. M. with an extra swimming period on Friday, and the Employed Boys on Tuesday and Saturday at 7:15 P. M. with an extra swimming period on Thursday at 7:50 P. M. The outdoor program will continue until about December 1st when a change will be made to the Gymnasium.

Classes for men are the Business Men's Class and the Senior Class on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, the Business Men at 5:15 P. M. and the Seniors at 8:15 P. M. Drills, runs and games such as basketball, volleyball, and indoor baseball are featured in these classes. Other activities for men which will get under way during the coming month and in which competition with groups is provided are handball, squash racquets, wrestling and swimming.

All of the matches in the singles and doubles tennis tournaments being conducted on the Y. M. C. A. courts have been played up to the semi-finals. In the singles tournament Rene Avigdor will meet Gordon Kitchen and L. Chase Kepner will play Thomas Bassett, with the winners playing the final match. The two semi-final matches in the doubles tournament are Rene Avigdor and Horace White vs. Kenneth Garrington and L. Chase Kepner, and Thomas Bassett and Gordon Kitchen vs. Raymond Clarke and Arthur Jacobs. Both final matches will probably be played on Saturday afternoon.

THE EDDY FAMILY

Will hold its eleventh annual meeting, at eleven o'clock, Saturday, October 3rd, at Town Hall, Swansea, Mass. The reunion of this family, at Swansea, this year, is for the special purpose of viewing the great improvement made during the past year, at the old cemetery that was decided in 1896, by Zachariah, son of Samuel Eddy the Pilgrim of 1630, "as a burying place for and to the families of the said Eddys and for such their neighbors as the said Eddys shall admit of forever."

At the Tercentenary Celebration, last year, commemorating the landing of John and Samuel Eddy, at Plymouth, Oct. 29th, this Association had published a limited edition of 600 copies of a new genealogy for 300 years of "The Eddy Family in America" that contains 42,000 references in its index. 40 pages of historical illustrations. Making a total of over 1400 pages. Of this edition only 40 copies remain unsold.

Addresses and election of officers will be part of the program at the Swansea meeting.

David Brewer Eddy, D.D., President, Will Currier Eddy, Vice President, and John Hardenbergh Eddy, Treasurer, 17 Pearl street, Boston, Mass.
